Introducing the OmniBlend

There are certain commercial-grade appliances that, thanks to their durability and versatility, are must-haves in any kitchen or bar. The OmniBlend with its powerful 3 Horse Power Motor can be compared with the Vitamix, Blendtec and Hamilton Beach (watch comparison videos).

The OmniBlend range consists of 3 models: OmniBlend I, OmniBlend III and OmniBlend V. The exact differences between both models are outlined on page 4.

How durable is the blender?

The 2,238 Watts motor is one of the most reliable motors in the industry and comes with a 3-year warranty. The motor is protected against power surges and overheating with its overload reset button. The jugs are made of BPA free Eastman Tritan Copolyester, and virtually unbreakable.

Competitive pricing

The OmniBlend is the most inexpensive 3 Horse Power blender on the market. Its affordability combined with performance makes it a logical choice for novice cooks and master chefs.

Spare parts are always in stock, and inexpensive, to ensure this a machine that lasts.

Many possible applications

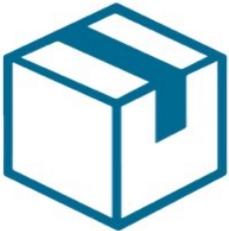

OmniBlend is also known for its versatility. Whether you require a reliable blender for frappés, smoothies, milkshakes, nut butters, soups or pastes: it can do it all!

Warranty, After Sales and

The OmniBlend comes with a commercial warranty and a domestic warranty. Commercial warranty is 3 years on the blender, except for blade assembly and labour (1 year). For domestic use we offer a 3-year comprehensive warranty.

You are in great company!

OmniBlend is the workhorse of choice for many commercial outlets. With these brands putting their trust in OmniBlend, you know you are in great company.

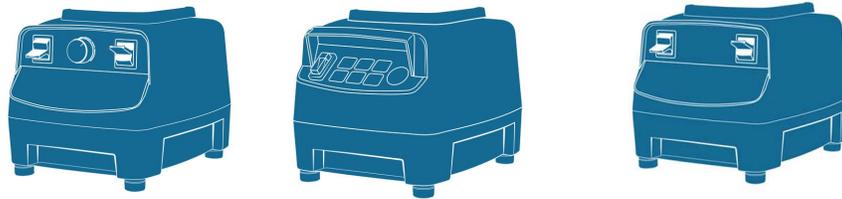

Which OmniBlend model to buy?

The OmniBlend blenders come in 3 colours - White, Red/Maroon and Black. This is however not the biggest and most important difference.

The difference between the OmniBlend I, OmniBlend V and OmniBlend III is the user interface. The OmniBlend I allows for variable speed control, which the OmniBlend V has 3 preset timers and the OmniBlend III has just a High/Low speed setting.

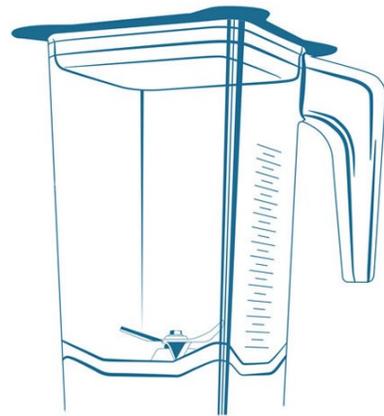

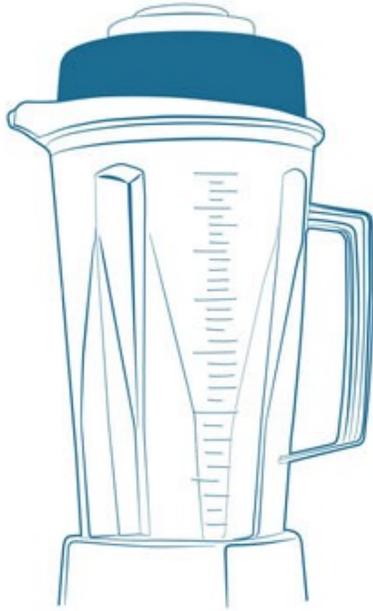

However, they all have the same 3HP motor, so they are equally powerful. They also have the same warranty of 3 years. For a complete comparison - please see below.

Customer testimonials

We need to be able to pump out smoothies non-stop, sometimes as many as 1500 smoothies a day. Using a commercial blender has streamlined the process and an all-in-one appliance also takes up less space. The OmniBlend is also really hardy so we can crush ice without the blades snapping. OmniBlend really goes above and beyond to help us out.

ALEXIA LILIKAKIS - FOUNDER BARMOTION

The blenders are the best value for money on the market and are commercial quality. Many low- end blenders run into all sorts of problems. The OmniBlend is durable and a great 'health' investment for any household.

TIM SPENCE - OWNER OF ORCHARD ON LONG

Great after-service, quick turn-around times. OmniBlend is an affordable blender that can do everything a Blendtec or Hamilton Beach could do.
