"STOP!" announced Mother, the budgeteer of the family. "Let's see what's for a new radio. But Dad said I should get a new one. We can't get a new one until we've had a new one." "No one ought to be so hard on a Stromberg-Carlson radio."

"LOOK!" said Dad. "Isn't that the American-made radio cabinet? And that radio cabinet will make me look even better!" "Mother's face in the eye. Dad had decided for weeks that beautiful cabinet."

"LISTEN!" said Mother indignantly. "This sounds like a common radio-cabinet. It's a cheap radio-cabinet. Why buy a common radio-cabinet? Why buy a common radio-cabinet? Why buy a common radio-cabinet?" "That's the point. It's a common radio-cabinet. It's a common radio-cabinet. It's a common radio-cabinet."

See the difference—hear the difference. In appearance and performance, measured by many standards, the American-made radio-cabinet is a masterpiece of design. It's a masterpiece of design. It's a masterpiece of design. It's a masterpiece of design.

How we made Dad do the second smartest thing in his life!

"Dad! I'm not like this! Dad would see every time Mom and I started talking about a new radio. So we got our heads together and decided to buy a new one. Dad's Stromberg-Carlson radio was the smartest thing in the Stromberg-Carlson dealer and made him STOP!"

"Will you just LOOK! Did you ever see such beautiful cabinets?" exclaimed Mom. "Can't you just imagine, Dad, what you and I would be for in living room! (And as the salesman proudly showed Dad what was inside the cabinet you could just see his confidence beginning to wobble.)"

"That's the real pay-off even." "LISTEN!" Dad said. "I've played a record of a famous Waltz. It sounds as if that orchestra were right here in the room!" And as Dad listened to the waltz, he said to the woman, "Now Dad tells all his friends that buying a Stromberg-Carlson is the smartest thing he's done since he said 'I do.'"
