Unveiling Fuvahmulah -
The Shark Haven of the Maldives

FUVAHMULAH

It stands as one of the most beautiful islands in the Maldives and ranks as the third largest atoll in the country. The island is divided into 8 municipal districts with its main economic revenue being tourism, fishing and agriculture. Fuvahmulah, also known as Maldives' shark island, is possibly ranking as one of the best shark diving destinations in the world. The island's unique underwater topography has a submerged reef extending deep towards the ocean floor. As a result, this makes the island and its surrounding waters home to a rare combination of pelagic life.

The reef hosts over 1200 species of fish, while the island is a sanctuary for more than 200 bird species. Fuvahmulah is a budget-friendly destination, especially appealing to divers as it is a local island and not a luxurious one. Renowned for its diverse shark population, including hammerhead sharks, thresher sharks, whale sharks, silver tip sharks and tiger sharks. Fuvahmulah is globally recognized as the ultimate destination for encountering marine predators year-round.

An aerial photograph of a tropical island. The island is lush with green palm trees and other vegetation. A harbor area is visible on the left side, with several boats docked at a pier. The water is a vibrant blue, and a small white boat is seen in the middle of the harbor. In the foreground, a large, traditional wooden boat with a white deck and a blue hull is visible, floating on the water. The sky is clear and blue.

Navigating your journey: Accessing Fuvahmulah

FUVAHMULAH features its own domestic airport, situated in Gnaviyani Atoll. Maldivian Aero currently offers 2 daily flights between Male and Fuvahmulah each lasting approximately 1 hour and 25 mins.
