

EREDE

For your first EREDE collection ring, we recommend measuring your finger rather than relying on the size of another ring.

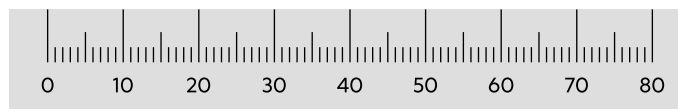

- Take a piece of string and form a snug yet secure loop around the finger where you plan to wear your EREDE collection ring.
- While gripping the ends, gently slide the loop over your knuckle to ensure it fits comfortably.
- Once you've determined the correct size, mark the points where the loop's ends meet using a pen.
- Place the ribbon or string flat against a ruler and measure the distance between the marked points, rounding to the nearest millimetre.
- Consult the Ring Sizing chart overleaf to find your ring size based on the measured distance.

Some General Advice

- Measure your finger at the end of the day, as finger size can vary throughout the day and in different weather conditions.
- If your measurement falls between two sizes, we suggest selecting the larger size for a more comfortable fit.
- If you currently own an EREDE collection ring, please note that our sizing remains consistent across all collections. You can locate your size engraved inside the ring band.
- Note that all EREDE collection rings are sized according to the US scale. Refer to the conversion chart in this PDF if necessary.

Sourcing an EREDE collection ring as a Gift

- If you're choosing an EREDE collection ring as a gift and want to determine the recipient's size, here's a straightforward method.
- Borrow a ring from their collection that has a similar band width or one that you know fits their finger comfortably.
- Place this ring on top of the size circles provided. Ensure that the outline of the ring aligns entirely within the size circle. If the measurement falls between two sizes, we recommend opting for the larger size.
