Question.

Do you know the meaning of the saying fit as a butcher's dog?

Answer

Very fit, a butcher's dog would be expected to be very well fed from scraps.

Over the years, we have moved away from feeding our dogs scraps and bones to Kibble (coarsely ground meal or grain), the equivalent of feeding junk food to your dog daily.

Therefore, almost 90% of dogs develop tooth and gum disease after age five. An untreated infection can spread to the organs leading to death. Dogs over the age of 5 can also suffer from the following symptoms.

- Ear Infections
- Itchy Skin
- Bad Breath
- Shabby Coat
- Bottom Scooting
- Smelly farts

This is all down to their diet!

We formulated Dogglebox to help combat the damage Kibble is causing by giving dogs the missing nutrients in their diet. This will enable dogs to have a longer, happier, and healthier life, and if we must do a little re-educating, then so be it.

What is a Dogglebox & why was it different from the other subscription dog treat companies:

Very simple ME your dog nutritionist, I based Dogglebox's on a Raw Meaty Bones diet containing six main sections; see our first ever Dogglebox menu below.

- One piece of fur each week
- One piece of bone each week
- One chew min each week
- One meaty product min each week

Every product has dental benefits to help with those teeth pearly white.

This is my way of introducing all-natural superfood products like hairy rabbit ears into your dog's diet. Whether your dog is kibble or raw fed, everything in the box is designed to support and boost your dog's immune system and dental hygiene, clean their intestines/ colons and squeeze those anal glands whilst bridging the gap for all feeding practices.

Doglebox Original November 2021
Hair/Fur	Bones	Chew	Meat/Offel	Dental	Treats/Train	Lines/Total per box
Hairy Rabbits Ears x2	Lamb Foot x1	Naked Rabbits Ears x2	Pheasant Stick x1	Tripe Dental Stick x1	Pork Crunch x1	20 diff lines per box
Hairy Cows ear x1	Duck Wing x1		Black Pudding Stick x1	Puffed Jerky x1	Pigs in blankets x1	30 treats per box
Hairy lamb skin x1	Chicken Feet x2	Deer Jerky x1	Turkey & Cranberry Sausage x4	Buffalo Spaghetti x3
		Buffalo Trachea x1	Venison sausages x4
			Beef Tripe x1

I change the Dogglebox's menus monthly so your dog can experience all the different animal products, not just the Beef/Lamb or Chicken flavored treats on the current market; they get Ostrich, Goat, and Rabbit, Deer, Duck, the list goes on and on.

But that is not my only plan!

I am secretly trying to desensitize you on handling animal products and encouraging you to move over to RAW as you witness for yourself the health benefits that just having a Dogglebox treat a day can make to your pet's overall health.

My passion is dogs, which drives Dogglebox to know we are trying to fix years of mistakes made by the dog food and treat industry, how to reverse that process naturally and get our beloved fur babies back to total health and extending their time with us humans.

Diet.

I'm often asked about the healthiest way you can feed your dog, so below are the most nutritious options.

Pray Model (PMF)

Pray model feeding is based on the dog's natural hunting patterns in the wild. Small animals pray like rabbits, mice, and poultry, including game poultry and foraging fell fruit and veg; these can be purchased online or through your butchers, local farm shops, and gamekeepers.

Raw Meaty Bones (RMB)

These include meats that humans consume more significant land-bearing animals like cows, sheep, pigs, etc. Most of these items are found at your local supermarket, butchers, and online delivery services.

ARF with bones

Barf is just RMB diet minced up, including the bones; you can do this yourself at home with a mincer and freeze or purchase these online and at local pet stores; this is ideal for older dogs with lots of teeth missing. The only downside is that they are no longer chewing and cleaning the remaining teeth or gums but are receiving the nutrition required.

BARF without bones

This is the same as the minced RMD, but with the bones removed, the owner can cook the food before serving if they wish. You can also do this method at home by just cooking separate portions of what you would be eating, but without human food, dogs can't have like onions for example.

Is raw feeding expensive?

I always ask my customers to total up the monthly amount they spend on dog food, treats, and anything else in between including any regular vet visits; this will give you your current monthly spend and a budget you can then keep to or decrease depending on your finances.

If you are considering moving to a Raw diet, you will need the following equipment.

- Freezer space or separate Freezer
- Mincer – Optional for BARF
- Freezer bags/freezer-safe containers /Pen
- Scales
- Knives
- Eggs
- Mineral Water for drinking (Kure oxygen water)
- *Vulvic Detox Minerals.
- Matt/towel
- BARF/RAW first two weeks stock of meals.

* I always Detox – when moving a dog from kibble to a raw diet.

For the detox, we chose a natural product called Fulvic along with changing your dog's drinking water to natural bottled water as this will filter out any toxins, metals, and chemicals that our tap water contains to make it drinkable, and Dogglebox treats for the fur vitamins/ minerals to build up their immune system.

After the detox, you have the choice to continue with the Fulvic and bottled water; I always advise keeping the fulvic and, of course, Dogglebox because it is nature's magic in my eyes.

Your dog must undergo this process to allow its digestive system to recover from built-up toxins from kibble and antibiotics/steroids being removed and introduced raw slowly, to build their immune system back up again.

While you introduce each food group back into your dog's diet correctly, you can monitor for allergies and dormant infections that may come to light throughout the process.

Success Stories Honey.

The Kearns family adopted Honey resulting from a plea from her friend on Facebook asking for adopters for Honey. They started her adoption process on 1st March 2021,

Honey is six years old cross-Staffy mastiff. Honey has had repeat ear infections that were never treated and resulted in severe cauliflower ears, periodontal stage 2/3, was on cheapest kibble in shops, overweight, depressed, weak, smelly, farting, and just a hot mess.

Constant trips to vets to treat ear infections/ skin infections and sore feet from constant licking and nibbling had already cost the Kearns family nearly £400 with another large amount due for her to be spayed. Due to the continuous visits to the vets, the Kearn family started looking into natural remedies and raw feeding to help Honey.

Honeys Health Check & Symptoms.

- Repeated Ear Infections
- Poor digestion system
- Suppressed Immune System
- Anxious
- Bloating
- Itchy Skin

Day 1 -2 Fasting.

For the first week of your dog's detox, they may Experience the following symptoms.

- Sluggish
- Low Energy
- Mood Swings
- Confusion

The reason Honey felt confused was that her food routine had stopped; this is quite normal, Honey owner just gave her lots of cuddles and affection when asked, and space when needed,

To aid Honey's digestive system, she fasted on every 7th day, this might seem not kind but trust me, your dog's digestive system will be a lot healthier for it, as animals in the wild do not eat every day.

To help with the detox, Honey was fed the following.

- Fulvic & Kure oxygen water, Egg mix.

Honey was not sure at first and refused to eat it, but it was not long before she was licking her bowl clean.

Day 3 -14

This is where we introduced Honey to Raw Chicken.

Chicken is a great raw food to start with as the bones are great for cleaning the intestines and squeezing the anal glands.

We also gave Honey fur treats to aid her digestive further while cleaning her teeth and gums. Fur & Bones are an essential part of your dog's natural diet

Honey Symptoms.

Itchy - Honey was itchy all over, licking & biting at her paws, shaking her head, once again this is nothing to worry about; it's just a result of the toxins leaving her body.

Poop - Honey pooped out some funky slimy poop in the first two weeks, don't worry, this is normal and mean the detox is working

Day 15 – 29

As Honey had a lot of allergies, we introduced new food one day at a time. We used Honey's poo as a guide to what her daily meals should consist of. Poo too soft owner needed to add bones and a bit of fur; poo too hard need to add liver to soften up. Adding new meat/organs/ fruit and veg one at a time and always looking for reactions and changes in poo consistency.

Day 17 was the turnaround day for Honey; she felt fantastic; her owners were commenting on her energy levels, friends and family pointed out differences in her physical appearance and how soft her fur had become, not smelling anymore, the list kept growing, even the vet commented on how much better Honey teeth were.

Each day Honey's health improved, and her muscles grew stronger as she became leaner and fitter.
