DUBLIN CHRISTMAS
EUCALYPTUS, MINT
& PINE

Rathbornes is proud to introduce a new Dublin Discovery Set, an exclusive collection comprising five fragrant favourites, each inspired by the historic capital - Dublin City.

The Dublin Discovery Set invites you to embark on a sensory journey through the diverse landscapes of Dublin. This journey seamlessly weaves together the art of fragrance with the art of storytelling. Each candle within the set tells a unique story, drawing inspiration from various corners of the capital. The "Dublin Dusk" scent transports you to Dublin's breathtaking coastline, while the "Dublin Retreat" fragrance captures the essence of the iconic Phoenix Park, a lush tranquil sanctuary nestled within the city.

It's all in the history here at Rathbornes...

1488 - Four years before Christopher Columbus set sail for the Americas Joseph Rathborne came to Dublin from Chester UK and established a candle manufacturing business in Dublin's Wynetavern Street.

Circa 1620 - The relocation to the North side of the Liffey - St Mary's Abbey, Prussia Street and later Parnell Street. From 1700 onwards the firm gradually expanded, securing the contract to supply the streets of Dublin with light - the light being the humble candle. In addition, the company secured the lucrative contracts supplying lighthouses around the coast.

1764 - Relocation to Dunsinea, Castleknock.

1914 - The last member of the Rathborne Family to run the factory, Henry Burnley Rathborne, sold the factory to John Barrington and Sons who in turn transferred the business to Shell in 1923.

1925 - Relocation to East Wall Road. Shell kept on the manager of Henry B Rathborne who remained with the firm until after the Second World War.

1966 - Rathbornes acquired Lalor Ltd - the biggest rationalisation in the history of Irish Candle making, consolidating production of both companies in East Wall Road.

2002 - Relocation to its new premises in Rosemount Business Park, Blanchardstown.

2015 - Launch of the luxury Beyond the Pale Collection.

2020 - Launch of our 100% natural and sustainable Botanical Bee Collection.
