Name: Mr Arjen Alberts

Role: Other

Specialty: Development Studies

Institution: Universiteit van Amsterdam

Country: Netherlands

What's it about?

"The article investigates the economic "success" of the tourism driven development of the Dutch overseas territories Aruba and Sint Maarten. The central argument is that in spite of fast economic growth, average wealth did not increase. This is because immigration lead to population growth as well. Hence the average productivity did not rise. This makes for a development model that depends on volume growth, while space is limited on these small islands."
