Dr. Phil causes a stir as a guest on The View

The atrocity of human trafficking is occurring around the world, yet many find it hard to keep believe that it could be going on right in their backyard.

In a recent interview on The View, Dr. Phil caused some controversy as he discussed his upcoming interview on his new series, Dr. Phil Primetime, where he traveled to the Southern border. In this interview at the border, the head of the border guards claims that “we are using American tax dollars to ship children into known prostitution and sweat shops.

According to Dr. Phil, the guard further explains that the federal government and U.S. attorneys are not involved due to resource issues, and that it is hard to know if Biden administration is aware of the issue.

Although many Americans refute the issue of human trafficking occurring in the U.S., in 2022, the Council on Foreign Relations reported that immigration authorities came across 152,000 unaccompanied minors at or close to the Southern border. This report also stated that there are tens of thousands of unaccompanied children each year. While there’s no conclusive data on the statement from Dr. Phil regarding the trafficking of children at the U.S. Southern border, The Human Trafficking Institute estimates that about 72% of human trafficking victims in the U.S. are immigrants.
