

Measuring Furniture For Delivery

When purchasing a new piece of furniture there are a few things to think about beforehand, such as access into your home.

Before purchasing your new item and to avoid disappointment, please check the following:

- Decide the best and easiest entry into your home to where you are placing your new item.
- Ensure there are no obstructions along the way.
- Measure all entryways, hallways and stairs to ensure they are wide enough and high enough for the item (see 1), this should include all outside areas also.
- If you have to use an elevator to access your home, you may want to measure the interior of this also.
- Measure areas such as hallway wall to entryway clearances (see 2).
- Consider all corners, ceiling height, stairways (height, widths, angles, bannisters and corners), and any low hanging fixtures or architectural details you may have. (see 3).
- To make the process as easy as possible the items maximum measurements in height, width and depth must not exceed any entryway, hallway, staircase or elevator measurements in either height or width.
