

July 31, 2006

A kit to fix kids' boo-boos

Summer is the season for kids to play outside, and as a result, to get plenty of scrapes and bruises. The medibag first-aid kit is especially designed to be easy for children and parents to use when life's little emergencies arise.

The kit comes in a kid-appealing bright red plastic box and includes all the standard items like bandages, antibiotic ointment, thermometers and tweezers, as well as items not normally found in such kits, like an eye wash, latex gloves, anti-itch cream, burn-relief gel and stickers.

The medibag also contains a flip chart to easily access medical information when you're in a panic, and the items are packaged in such a way that they won't be disturbed by a bit of jostling.

You can buy it for $29.99, and get free shipping, through <http://www.amazon.com> . For information, go to <http://www.me4kidz.com> .

