

GREEN GURU makes gear for the future by stitching together the past's wastes like old bike tubes, tents, ropes, wetsuits and more into new adventurous life and bike gear.

Sewn in Colorado, USA as sustainably as possible with fair wages and respect since 2005.

Born from adventure with respect for nature.

What do you want to do with your next bike tube, tent, wetsuit or rope when it is past its usable life? Give it another life with Green Guru.

"The Dutchy is large enough to haul a couple of bags of groceries, your gym bag, or everything you need for a day at the office. Made from recycled billboards, it's functional and weatherproof, and pops right off your bike rack and compresses, too."

— The Essentials: 5 Must Have Items For Bike Commuters

"It's clear from the array of bike accessories offered on their [Green Guru Gear's] website that they love biking and want you to love it too. Their handy panniers, saddle bags, and backpacks are designed to make carrying your necessities much easier (they even have 6-pack holders!)"

— 7 Men's Accessories Made From Unexpected Materials

"Green Guru makes products like bike panniers and backpacks from used inner tubes, convention banners, billboards, and fabric scraps. It sells its own products, and even manufactures upcycled products for third-party brands."
