Apply light pressure and make slow circular motions. Gradually move along the brow bone towards the temples, maintaining gentle pressure. Gentle tapping: Using the pads of your ring finger or middle finger, lightly tap the area under the eyes. Start from the inner corners and move outward in a gentle, rhythmic motion. Start from the temples and move inwards towards the brow bone, following the natural contours of the eye socket. Repeat this motion several times, applying slight pressure as needed. Lift and smooth: Place your fingers at the outer corners of the eyes, near the temples. Gently press and lift the skin, moving towards the brow bone. This lifting action helps to reduce the appearance of fine lines and sagging skin. Repeat on the upper eyelid: Using your fingertips, apply gentle pressure on the upper eyelid, starting from the inner corner and moving towards the outer corner. Follow the contour of the eye socket, applying light upward strokes. Release tension: Place your fingertips at the center of the forehead, just above the bridge of the nose. Apply gentle pressure and slowly slide your fingers outwards towards the temples. This helps release tension and promote relaxation.
