INTRODUCTION TO OUR NEW SCHOOL UNIFORM

Dear Community,

One of the most anticipated changes we are introducing later this year is our new school uniform, and I am delighted to present it to you.

The decision to revise our uniform has not been made lightly. After months of planning and designing with our uniform suppliers, we aimed to design a uniform that represents our school's values, instils a sense of pride and belonging, and ensures comfort and practicality for our students.

Our new uniform is a testament to the evolution of our school community, reflecting our continued commitment to excellence and our respect for tradition while acknowledging the dynamic and evolving nature of education and our times.

Key features to look forward to:

Modern Design: While maintaining elements of our traditional colours and symbols, the new uniform has a more contemporary look, ensuring our students feel both stylish and comfortable.

Quality Fabric: We've chosen materials that are durable, easy to care for, and comfortable for all-day wear, regardless of the season.

Inclusive Options: Recognising our ever evolving and diverse student body, we've ensured our uniform comes in a range of sizes and fits, catering to everyone.

Environmentally Conscious: In our efforts to be more environmentally responsible, the new uniform is made of sustainable materials. We are working with several companies to ensure that stock of our current uniform is recycled in a sustainable and ethical manner. This includes both recycling textiles and donating items both interstate and offshore.

Affordability: While we've upgraded in terms of quality and design, we have worked diligently with suppliers to ensure costs remain reasonable for our families.

We truly believe that our new uniform will not only enhance the appearance of our students but also foster a stronger sense of community, equality, and tradition. Remember, a uniform is not just an outfit; it's a representation of our collective identity.

Kind regards,

STUART JOHNSTON
Principal

THE journey to our new uniform

The story of Peninsula Grammar's uniform is a journey through time, reflecting the school's evolution and enduring commitment to excellence. It all began in the 1960s when the school's colours of blue, tan, and silver were chosen. The first students, the Foundation Students of 1961, wore a plain grey uniform with a distinctive blue wool cap adorned with a white mitre, later to become an iconic part of the school's crest.

As the years unfolded, the uniform saw changes and adaptations. The 1970s saw the introduction of the Colours Blazer, while in the 1980s, the Junior School embraced the Bomber Jacket, replacing the traditional blazer. The 1990s marked a significant transformation with the admission of girls, bringing with it the challenge of designing a suitable uniform.

The 2000s ushered in distinctive uniforms for boys and girls, featuring blazers, ties, and various accessories that reflected the school's spirit. And now, in the year 2023, Peninsula Grammar prepares to introduce a new chapter in its uniform history. The current uniform will be phased out in favour of a fresh design, symbolising the school's commitment to high-quality education in a nurturing environment.

This new uniform isn't just a change in clothing - it's an embodiment of the school's enduring pride and its students' dedication to the Peninsula Grammar community. As we move forward, let's celebrate the rich history that has brought us to this moment and look ahead to the exciting future that awaits.

FROM our designers

Noone, Australia's leading designer and manufacturer of school uniforms since 1947, has worked with Peninsula Grammar over the past 12 months to develop a cohesive and functional range of clothing to meet the current and future needs of the whole school community.

The overarching design brief was to maintain the schools' colours and crest, but ensure all students are to have the choice of garments in their uniform range which suits them best. The creation of a wardrobe of contemporary garments will provide options for comfort and warmth through layering. The opportunity for students to wear comfortable clothing suitable for the ever-changing weather has been a key consideration in the overall range.

Our design team has adopted improved fabrics which now have sustainability elements such as the use of recycled polyester in shorts, trousers, skirts, and tunics. These new fabrics also have the extra added feature of elastane for comfort and stretch. Additionally, the overall range is more concise than the current uniform range and Noone has also made improvements to the fabric adopted in the striped blazer, which remains a key part of the new uniform.

The new uniform respects the past traditions of Peninsula Grammar, while providing a gender-neutral range of co-ordinate pieces, giving students a real choice in the items they prefer to wear. Items such as shirts, shorts, trousers, and blazers all have the added benefit of "classic and tailored" fits to provide better fitting options for all students.

We are confident this range will provide the Peninsula Grammar community with improved outcomes in every aspect of the uniform range from design, quality, comfort and fit.

FROM our students

"I really love the new cardigan, that is my favourite bit. I also really like the skort, as the dress can sometimes be too long, and I get tangled when I run, so I think the skort will be fun to run around in. I also really like the pinafore as it is like overalls, and I love overalls."

"The navy pants look smart. The navy blue works so well with the jumper and the blazer. It is great that we are evolving and becoming more contemporary."

"The shorts are a good change and more inclusive for all genders."

"The new uniform is a lot comfier for me, I think the material is made of a softer fabric. I like the summer uniform because you don't have to tuck your shirt in and wear a tie. The tie makes you feel hot in summer."

The Peninsula Grammar School community has a uniform that inspires pride while being functional, versatile and long-lasting.
