NATURALLY BEAUTIFUL WALLCOVERINGS

Natural materials, clean lines, rich textures, nature's hues;
the essence of Mark Alexander Wallcoverings.

Using time-honoured techniques, Collage III brings unique patina and architectural nuance to interior spaces.

Created by nature, crafted by hand.

SURU

Hand cut yarns of raffia add texture and elegance to this handwoven sisal wallcovering.

KOBE

Irregular yarns of natural abacá contrast with a handspun cotton ground to create a design with a strong horizontal aspect.

KOSHI

A large-scale check is picked out using raffia against a ground of handspun cotton in this strikingly elegant handwoven design.

HYACINTH WEAVE

A lattice of handwoven water hyacinth has been mounted onto paper with a subtle sheen, creating a design of balanced contrast.

MERIDIAN

A patchwork of Japanese papers, crumpled, hand-coloured and mounted on a paper backing brings texture and depth to a stitched linear design in this architectural wallcovering.

BAKBAK

Coarse strands of banana bark create a strongly variegated texture, subtly contrasted with a wash of earthy tones.

MEDINA

Inspired by Berber weaves, this handwoven wallcovering is made of strands of hand-coloured raffia yarns that give a beautifully textured contrast to the vertical stripe.

ABACÁ PATCHWORK

Various shapes of woven strands of abacá are mounted, slightly overlapping, onto coloured paper to create a subtle patchwork design.

DUO ABACÁ

Different colours of abacá yarns contrast in a subtle and random way, creating gentle movement in this shimmering grasscloth wallcovering.

LATTICE MOSAIC

Cut pieces of handwoven sisal are juxtaposed to create a stunning lattice effect that makes this mosaic wallcovering truly special.
