

A rag doll story
with two endings

THE ELEPHANT WHO WANTED TO FLY

Written and Illustrated by LILYANA DVORYANOVA

MARMOT PUBLISHING

“How about watching a movie after finishing our tea and the book?”

“Let’s do it! I really love the movie about the elephant that can fly!”

“Oh, how I wish I could fly like Dumbo the elephant!” the elephant sighed.

“Maybe if you jump from some high place...”

3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23 24 25 26 27 28 29 30 31

Flyyyyyyyyy!

THUMP!

"Ouch! It hurts!"

"You're too heavy!"
The mouse
caressed him.

“Let’s inflate some balloons and tie you up to them!”
The mouse said.

“No, it doesn’t work!
You’re too heavy!”

"Let's go to the birds!
They will help me,"
The elephant proposed.

"It doesn't work!
You're too heavy!"
the birds said.

Heeeeelp!

"I've got it!" The mouse jumped with joy. "I will sew bigger ears to your head! When you flap with them, you will catch the wind."

I'm falling dooown!

I couldn't catch the wing! I am too heavy! The elephant sighed.