Break down, take down Now it's on

Don't get caught
Well, no! Hell, no!
What you gonna do?
When they keep coming for you.

I wish I could fix you
And I wish you could fix me.

I wish I could fix you
And make you how I want you.

Your eyes are open now but you know It's still hard to see inside...

I am just stretching my tired limbs on the mattress and as I try to steal a wink of sleep I think of you. I want you to give your best to the sacrificial fire that is being lighted.

With love
M. Ganselke

A black backpack is the central focus, positioned on a green mat. The word "PATRIÒT" is printed in white, bold, sans-serif capital letters on the upper front panel. The backpack has a main compartment with a zipper and a smaller front pocket with a zipper. In the background, there are shelves with various gym equipment, including boxing gloves and weights. The lighting is soft, highlighting the texture of the backpack's fabric.

Our past lives dressed in white

We're all just dragged to the fight...

*In different heights or aptly, hairs, straight to the narrow indistinct and dark's outline Small Discords and most so many, hold the Remains from Creation not conceals This God would be the universal soul,
Not in the "reaching", the organic harp,
No each one dance, to that, each each calls.*

*But they more serious look a new Refractor Dark, O beloved woman! and thy words Pious and calm check their unshattered thought,
These Slapings of the unregenerate soul,
But less, that glitter as they rise & break
On vain Philosophy's eye babbling Spring?
Thou biddest me walk humbly with my God!
Hark Daughter in the family of Christ,
Truly thou sayest, we live as thy words!
Nor may I unlearn or shake or think of Him,
Th' Incomprehensible, save when with thee I praise ^{and} with Death that only feels,
Who with his saving Mercy, healed me,
A sinful and most miserable man Wildered and dazed, and gave me to possess Peace and the Gift, and Life, my best beloved!*

The Man in the Arena
It is not the critic who counts; not the man who points out how the strong man stumbles, or where the doer of deeds could have done them better. The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena, whose face is marred by dust and sweat and blood; who strives valiantly; who errs, who comes short again and again, because there is no effect without error and shortcoming; but who does actually strive to do the deeds; who knows great enthusiasms, the great devotions; who spends himself in a worthy cause; who at the best knows in the end the triumph of high achievement, and who at the worst, if he fails, at least fails while daring greatly, so that his place shall never be with those cold and timid souls who know neither victory nor defeat.
