

Natural Breast Enlargement through mind training

Trials of a new product from InnerTalk gains 2 cm to breast size within 30 days.

The mind remains a marvellous mystery. Modern scientific methods combined with new technologies have given us many insights into the operation of the brain as both an anatomical mechanism and the seat of mind or consciousness.

We know today, for example, that the mind plays a significant role in health, body form and longevity. We also know that belief tends to aim action, and this becomes our pattern of behaviour. The mind can promote success or undermine our every effort.

Many professionals now believe that there can be a number of psychological reasons leading to the arrest of normal breast development. Further, a lot of research has demonstrated the effectiveness of techniques employing suggestion, such as hypnosis, for natural breast enlargement. Suggestions and affirmations, such as "I love my breasts, I sense blood flow warming my breasts, my body is miraculous, I am beautiful, I love my body," and so forth. As difficult as it may seem to some, the mind does exercise an influence even over breast development.

Women who have had children will have experienced some mind/breast relationships. After childbirth, just the sound of the baby crying triggers the creation and release of milk from the breasts. This is an example of how the mind can affect a physical reaction.

The InnerTalk Natural Breast Enlargement product uses the InnerTalk patented mind training technology which is available on a CD. Already available and successful for some time in the USA, this CD has now been trialled and is now available in the UK. The UK trial involved 15 women and has resulted in approximately 2cm of breast growth and a fuller cup size within 30m days.

Women also reported a "tingling" sensation, similar to that experienced in puberty. One woman said, "I was somewhat sceptical of the CD's power to make physical changes but the proof is undeniable."

For women contemplating breast enhancement, you must try this CD first. It has been proven to work. The CD is available from InnerTalk at a special price for Whatmedicine? readers of £15.99.
