Place one side of the DaVinci Tool on the sore muscle and apply what you consider to be a comfortable amount of pressure. When the muscle is released, it causes a therapeutic response. Pressure preferences vary from one person to another. You can achieve deep and intense pressure or gentle and relaxing. More pressure is not necessarily better. Applying too much pressure for too long causes the body to treat the pressure as an intrusion. Start off slow and easy. 10 to 20 seconds is sufficient. Repeat 3 to 4 times each session if necessary.

There are 100's of ways to use the DaVinci Tool. Experiment for yourself!

The DaVinci Tool can be rotated in three different positions to allow for optimal positioning and best pressure point release.
