Want an extensive course in makeup application? During the one-hour Secrets from the Chair service, Natalie Gee illustrates her techniques for getting any look you crave. For glowing skin and smoky eyes, the makeup artist smoothed plumping Hydrating B5 Gel ($74; skinceuticals.com) over our tester's complexion before applying foundation to even out redness. On one eye, she painted liquid liner over upper lashes and darkened the lid with powder shadow, then handed the tools to her "student" to replicate it on the other eye. The lesson elicited an A-plus from our beauty junkie. She left with an instructional chart so she could perfect Gee's technique at home, plus an invitation for a complimentary follow-up session.
