Jean Abernethy Presents

and the Greener Grass

Tant Man

IS

From the Author of The Essential Fergus the Horse and Fergus: A Horse to Be Reckoned With

00

DUPLICATION PROHIBITED by copyright holder

Fergus was a little horse, outstanding in his meadow.

> © Jean Abernethy and Trafalgar Square Books www.HorseandRiderBooks.com

He was eating grass beside the fence when came into his head, Ohhhh...

WHON HEARE WORK I'V

DUPLICATION PROHIBITED by copyright holder

He had a BC idea, `cause he couldn't quite decide, if the grass might be a little greener, on the other side. CARDON WAR

8)

((अ २))

© Jean Abernethy and Trafalgar Square Books www.HorseandRiderBooks.com DUPLICATION PROHIBITED by copyright holder

So he reached through, and chose to chew the greenest he could see.

© Jean Abernethy and Trafalgar Square Books www.HorseandRiderBooks.com

That fine spring day, the rails gave way, and Fergus, then, was free!

> (100 08)

> > (())

((%

(02))

© Jean Abernethy and Trafalgar Square Bool www.HorseandRiderBooks.com