

INFECTION PREVENTION AND CONTROL 1

EclipseCrossword.com

WORD BANK

PHAGOCYTOSIS
DROPLET
SCARLET WOUND
HUMORAL
DIPHTHERIA

INFLAMMATION
INSECT
RESERVOIR
WHITE
FEVER
STANDARD

SEVENTEEN
ENCEPHALITIS PRIMARY COUGHING
ORAL

PERTUSSIS
PAIN
PREGNANT
EQUIPMENT MEDICAL

INFECTION PREVENTION AND CONTROL 1

Across

---

4. An example of a secondary biochemical defense process.
6. Elevated erythrocyte sedimentation rate.
8. The incubation period of chicken pox is thirteen to _____ days.
12. This disease is spread by direct contact and symptoms include severe cough with a high pitch whooping sound.
13. A mode of transmission of infection.
14. An example of a living reservoir.
18. A possible complication from mononucleosis.
19. Assessment finding of local infection.
21. Fever associated with strawberry tongue.
22. A component of the chain of infection.

Down

---

1. Intact skin is an example of this type of defense.
2. These women should avoid contact with children with rubella.
3. Example of portal of entry.
5. An increased in these blood cells indicates the presence of disease or injury.
7. An example of droplet transmission.
9. An example of a non-living reservoir.
10. Type of immunity that is considered a tertiary defense against infections.
11. Assessment finding of a systemic infection.
15. Mononucleosis is transmitted through direct contact with these secretions.
16. Type of asepsis meaning a clean technique with no pathogens involving the gastrointestinal and vaginal tracts.
17. Symptoms include hoarseness, fever, and pharyngeal lymphadenitis.
20. Most important precaution to reduce transmission of pathogens.