Learning to read

SPELD SA Phonic Books support the teaching of reading by using a structured synthetic phonics approach. They are designed to build on the pre-reading skills of oral language and phonological awareness needed for reading success. The books support the learning of letter-sounds and blending in a sequential phonic order, helping students to develop their independent decoding skills. The books also contain limited high frequency words that need to be taught before reading the book. The questions and activities focus on increasing a student's vocabulary and fluency and encourage the student to make deeper connections with the author's message.

Dan, king of hip hop (101 words)

Before reading the book, use the practice page to:

1. Revise the letter-sounds

2. Teach the blending of letter-sounds in regular words

The student points to each letter or combination of letters, saying the sound they represent. Swipe left to right under the letters, saying the sounds quickly and smoothly together to read the word. e.g. v-a-n is 'van'; l-o-ng is 'long'; s-i-ng-s is 'sings'; s-w-i-m is 'swim'; g-oo-d is 'good'; b-u-zz is 'buzz'; s-w-ee-t is 'sweet'; c-l-a-i-m-s is 'claims'.

During single word practice, check that the student understands the meaning of the word.

If the student is having difficulty hearing the word when blending:

- repeat the sounds more than once in succession to help the student 'hear' the word
- model stretching the sounds together without pauses, e.g. nnnniiiiip, is 'nip'
- use letter tiles and push them together while saying the sounds.

3. Teach the high frequency words (words that the student will not be able to sound out)

Tell the student the words and determine any 'tricky' parts by breaking up the word into its sounds. Many high frequency words will be able to be sounded out later as the student learns more sounds and how they are written.

Provide practice through games like matching flash cards and Snap. For extra support, write the high frequency words on cards for the student to refer to as they read.

Reading tips

A combination of letters can represent a sound, such as in boat (b-oa-t), song (s-o-ng), fern (f-er-n), shout (sh-ou-t), or night (n-igh-t).

The suffix <ed> can represent the sound /d/ as in 'rubbed', /t/ as in 'packed' and /id/ as in 'landed'.

Words can contain schwa vowel sounds. The schwa is pronounced as an /uh/ sound, such as in, 'Nana', 'butter', 'across', 'the'. Explore with the student which part of the word has the schwa sound by breaking the word into its sounds. Take note of how the schwa sound is spelt.

Vocabulary

The words on this page can be used to help the student's comprehension before, during or after reading the book. Link the meanings of words with what the student already knows, show examples or have students act out the words.

- rap – songs that are spoken not sung
- van – a medium sized vehicle made to carry goods
- jet – a plane that flies very fast
- cookbook – a book with recipes
- buzz – feeling of excitement
- cuz – cousin (slang)
- hip hop – a style of music that can include rap
- Amata – the name of the town where Dan lives

Dan sings rap songs.
He claims to be the king of Amata hip hop. Do you agree?

“Dan, Dan, Dan the man.
Dan the man in a big, green
van.”

“I can sing you a song, it’s not too long.”

“I look so cool as I swim in the pool.”

“I jump like a jet and get myself wet.”

“I look so good in my black and red hood.”

“I love to cook from my sweet cookbook.”

I get a big buzz, rapping with my cuz. I'm the king of Amata hip hop. I keep on going. I do not stop."

From blending to fluency

To develop fluency, the student needs to re-read the same book multiple times. Students might initially sound out every word and re-read every sentence but, with practice, blending will become more automatic. The fluency chart can be used to develop automaticity of blending by providing single word blending practice.

While reading the book, the student:

- blends the sounds of each unknown word in the sentence
- identifies and reads high frequency words
- re-reads the sentence from the beginning
- discusses the meaning of the sentence

When finished, the student needs to re-read the whole book and practise reading the same book until they can read at a steady pace with minimal sounding out.

Making connections - questions and discussion

After the student has read the book, or the relevant page, ask them one or more of the following questions and discuss:

1. What are some of the things that Dan likes doing?
Do you like doing any of the same things?
2. Have you ever made up a rap song with your friends?
What types of things do you need to be able to do to write a rap song?
3. Make a list of words that rhyme in the story.
Can you use these rhyming words to make up your own rap song?
You can make a list of your own rhyming words if you like.
4. The word 'cuz' is short for cousin.
Tell me about some of your cousins.
Why do we shorten some words when we speak?
5. Dan says, "I jump like a jet".
How is the way Dan jumps just like a jet?
What is another word for what Dan is doing? (diving)

About this series

The SPELD SA Phonic Book Series complements the teaching of reading and writing using a structured synthetic phonics approach. SPELD SA aims to help Aboriginal students engage with phonic books by having characters, content and settings that reflect Aboriginal communities. In developing this series, SPELD SA has consulted with people who live and work in the Anangu, Pitjantjatjara Yankunytjatjara (APY) Lands. We understand that the content, settings and characters may not reflect all Aboriginal people and their experiences but hope that Aboriginal students learning to read can find some familiarity in and connection with these books in their literacy journey.

Each set of books introduces a group of sounds for students to blend to read words. The books with a single star icon on the front cover contain a lower word count and less high frequency words. The books with two stars contain a higher word count, a greater number of high frequency words and/or more complex word structure. Please consider your student's ability when choosing a book for them to read. For a comprehensive explanation of the structure of the series, please refer to the SPELD SA website.
