Our position regarding REACH

As a manufacturer of kitchen utensils we are conscious of our role regarding Reach regulation. We actively work within the FIM (Federation des Industries Mecaniques – metallurgy industries trade union) and the CETIM (technical centre of the FIM) to clarify the status, the demands we need to satisfy and the tools that need to be build to that regard. Today, De Buyer respects Reach regulation for its entire line of products, nevertheless, the following can be declared regarding Reach :

- No substance from the products such pots, pans and other utensils is supposed to be rejected in normal or reasonably foreseeable usage. As consequence, no pre-registration nor registration procedure is required from the manufacturers of these products
- Meanwhile, should any substance be registered, we commit to inform the product user and notify if necessary the European Agency of chemical products.
