September In The Trial Garden

Harvest season is in full swing! We grew Rainbow Sherbert Icebox Watermelon to take additional pictures for our website. These tasty little melons have either pink, orange, or yellow flesh. They grow easily, mature quickly, and have crisp, well-shaped fruit with succulent cool summer night ripeness. Reliable and delicious, this melon mixture remains one of our favorites.

We also grew our Cinco de Mayo Amaranth, which literally glows in the garden. Amaranth is a grain that matures well in cool, humid climates. They are easy from seed, take minimal care, and provide wonderful color and interest at season's end.

Our favorite Zinnia currently on trial is Queeny Orange Lime. The three foot plants are absolutely covered with Pollyanna, uniquely colored flowers with shaded orange crimson petals and lime inner petals. They are striking in the garden, make long lasting bouquets, and attract all sorts of beneficial insects. Our favorite Zinnia so far! Get our full summary in our September Newsletter.

Recipe of the Month

Melon Blush Cooler

This thick, icy, fruity drink is wonderfully refreshing and delicious on a warm late summer afternoon.
