

People

Mayron's Goods: Gentle (and Safe!) Skincare for the Whole Family

Check out thirtysomething actress-director Melanie Mayron's collection of gentle, safe skincare products.

By peoplestaff225 | Updated September 28, 2010 02:00 PM

Although best known for her Emmy-winning role on the '80s drama thirtysomething, Melanie Mayron is hardly one to rest on her laurels. The actress-director has since created another hit – Mayron's Goods, a complete line of all-natural skincare for babies and their parents!

Developed with the help of her dad, chemist David Mayron, the company was conceived through Melanie's search for a safer diaper cream for her own children. That desire became a reality when David created Mayron's Goods first barrier and diaper cream ($12), which is free of parabens, sodium lauryl sulfate or DEA while also loaded with essential oils, vitamins, antioxidants and healing ingredients like beeswax and shea butter.