BEHIND THE BRAND

Noosa local Saya McDermott has been formulating, researching and training in natural skincare since the age of 17. Suffering through years of eczema and breakouts, Saya tried hundreds of products but couldn't find skincare that would deliver the results she needed. It wasn't until she started making her own natural products she finally saw relief.

Wanting to help others suffering from problem skin, Saya was determined to produce a purely-plant based collection that would not only nourish the skin but also aid it in healing itself. Falling in love with the power of Native Australian Botanicals, Saya incorporates these powerhouse ingredients into all of her products and continues to innovate her formulas to provide a truly diverse, certified organic skincare range.
