About Glandex® Oral Supplements

Glandex is an oral supplement specifically designed for anal gland problems in dogs and cats with guaranteed results. This innovative formula is a scientific breakthrough in reducing anal gland problems and is more effective and less irritating than frequent anal gland expressing. Glandex is the only product that targets all of the underlying causes of anal gland problems and helps pets naturally empty their anal glands.

The Science of Glandex®

Glandex's patented formula contains key ingredients that provide both anal gland and digestive support. Balanced with the precise amount of fiber, Glandex helps to create voluminous and firm stools. This creates pressure on the anal glands allowing them to empty naturally every time the pet defecates. Glandex also contains natural anti-inflammatories and omega fatty acids to target the underlying inflammation and allergies that trigger anal gland problems. In addition, Glandex is formulated with probiotics and digestive enzymes to support a healthy digestive tract, which in turn supports healthy anal gland function.

Indications for using Glandex®

Glandex is indicated for pets with chronic anal sacculitis, pets requiring frequent anal gland expressing, pets that are susceptible to anal gland infections and/or abscesses, and as an alternative to anal sacculotomy. Glandex is also helpful in managing cases of mild gastrointestinal upset and colitis.

About Glandex® Wipes

Our Glandex Wipes are designed as a convenient one step process to clean the area after anal gland expression. They contain Deoplex®, an enzymatic deodorizer that breaks up the smell on a molecular level. They also contain Vitamin E, aloe, skin conditioners, and moisturizers to soothe the area and a light fresh scent to keep pets smelling their best.
