Founded by British former lawyer Sasha Conlan, The Barbie Girls is an online gourmet meat and seafood retail shop specialising in sustainably farmed and hormone and antibiotic-free poultry, seafood and red meats largely imported from New Zealand, Australia and Europe.

The three-year-old business expanded into the Havelock Road unit a year ago, and though it isn't exactly a retail store – the 300 sq ft space serves as Ms Conlan and assistant Jennifer Anderson's administrative office and physical pick-up point for customers who would rather not await home delivery – they will entertain limited walk-in enquiries.

Besides charcuterie, cheeses and pantry essentials such as sauces and stocks, look out for their Barbie Meals, or frozen lasagna (above) and meatball ready meals, along with meat and seafood packs designed to feed two to four persons for a week, and barbecue bundles for groups of 10 or 20 – a handy resource for time-strapped modern families.
