What are the possibilities and limitations of pursuing broader reparations for the Armenian Genocide? With some increase in non-denialist engagement with the Genocide in Turkey and the emergence of a global reparations movement involving numerous human rights violations and victim groups, it may be an appropriate time to revisit this long-neglected question.

HENRY THERIAULT, ARA PAPIAN and members of the Armenian Genocide Reparations Study Group did just that in their 2015 report- Resolution with Justice: Reparations for the Armenian Genocide- wherein they provided analysis and recommendations that looked toward a larger process of reparation for the impact and extensive outstanding damages of the Genocide.

Join us as they consider to what extent a universal commitment to human dignity requires a recognition of both Armenians' suffering and their right to restitution. They will present the case for reparations, its support in law and ethics, the practical obstacles, developments since the unveiling of the report, and opportunities to attract wider attention and take steps to comprehensive and effective reparations.

HENRY THERIAULT is President of the International Association of Genocide Scholars and Associate Vice President for Academic Affairs at Worcester State University. ARA PAPIAN is President of the Modus Vivendi Research Center and former Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary of the Republic of Armenia to Canada.
