The brand's founder and head designer, Angèle, will work with you during a period of collaboration across several appointments and fittings, taking the time to understand your vision for your unique garment. Your dress will be made from handpicked materials and your choice of precious and rare embellishments.

The lead time for an Angie Power bespoke bridal dress is 5 months and pricing starts from £4,500.

This process is centred around you and your requirements so consultations can take place at the Angie Power ateliers located in East London and Venice. We are also able to offer video-consultations and mobile appointments within central London.
