

THE ROOF CROP INTERNSHIP PROGRAM

The Roof Crop is searching for dedicated and hardworking individuals interested in learning more about urban farming and green infrastructure.

Do you have an interest in learning more about how an urban farm operates? Love gardening and have a passion for the local/sustainable food movement? Does the idea of working on a farm on a green roof in the middle of Chicago make you excited?! If you answered yes to any of these questions, we want to talk to you!

Our interns take on a unique role at The Roof Crop. One can expect to get involved in all aspects of the farm; farm maintenance, planting, harvesting, indoor greenhouse growing, processing and packing produce, and any miscellaneous farm tasks.

Work days start early (6/7 AM) and end mid-day/early afternoon. We are looking for interns who can commit to 20 hours a week (unpaid and for class credit highly preferred) for at least a 10 week period. A handful of previous interns have stuck around longer than 10 weeks for a paid opportunity with the company.

Roof Crop employees are problem solving, motivated individuals who are committed to pushing The Roof Crop forward each and every day. Opportunities to grow with the company are available to those who reflect these same values! Reach out to Hannah today to learn more.
