High Wire by Stephanie Erin juxtaposes a sharp zig-zag motif around its circular yoke and cuffs with beautiful drape. We paired speckled colorways with a complementing tonal MC for surprising pops of color. Crocheters will love this new garment pattern, which appears in Moorit Magazine's first issue.

KIKA

DESIGNER Olga Buraya-Kefelian YARN Capital Luxury Sport

Olga Buraya Kefelian is the queen of designing patterns that can be worn multiple ways, as she's done with Kika. Don't let its classic triangle shape fool you—while it will make a perfect shawl or wrap, its arm holes let you style it multiple ways as a vest or tank. And if that wasn't adaptable enough, its stitch pattern is completely reversible.

Karida and Cameron model the different ways to wear the Kika, shown in Waverly

OVER

Kerrin is wearing the
Debut pullover in Oaklee.

With a subtle texture around the yoke, the Debut Pullover by Karida Collins is excellent for showing off variegated colorways. A bottom-up sweater with minimal seaming, the Debut Pullover will be ready to wear almost as soon as you cast it off your needles.

SIMPLE SWONCHO

DESIGNER Karida Collins YARN Organic Studio Worsted

Karida (left) models the Simple Swoncho in Thomas Circle. Beth is wearing it in Truxton Circle

The eyelet and cable details in the Simple Swoncho by Karida Collins will make it a show-stopping garment, despite being so relaxing to make and wear. With plenty of ease and a dramatic silhouette, it can be styled as a glam layering piece or for a cozy night in.

Beth (near right) is wearing the Everyday Cowlette in Canton. Kerrin (far right) is modeling it in Oliver.

EVERYDAY COWLETTE

DESIGNER Karida Collins YARN Organic Studio Chunky

The Everyday Cowlette is a drapery, squishy, delectable accessory that will get you through the heaviest winters. Don't worry about it creating bulk under your coat or bunching under your chin - the slit on the side lets the cowl fall over your shoulder and lay flat.

WINGLET MITTS

DESIGNER Sachiko Burgin YARN Organic Studio Sock

Karida shows off the moth motif in our sample of the Winglet Mitts, knit in Bentalou.

The Winglet Mitts by Sachiko Burgin features an adorable moth on each mitt, constructed entirely with knits, purls, and yarn overs. No matter what size you make - youth to adult large - you just need one skein of Organic Studio Sock to make this lovely accessory. Pick a light color to invoke the moths' delicate wings, or go fully nocturnal with a dark yarn.

BIG

DESIGNER Jennifer Shiels Toland YARN Organic Studio Worsted

EASE

The Big Ease offers plentiful texture with its garter rib borders and cuffs, and is terrifically comfy over a pair of leggings or jeans this. This size-inclusive pattern is knit seamlessly from the bottom-up and comes with two neckline options, and the sleeves are optional if you prefer a tunic-length vest to a full sweater.

Karida wears the Big Ease in Bromo. Our version is has a mock-neck, but the pattern also has directions for a full turtleneck.

MITTS

FLASH

DESIGNER Karida Collins YARN Organic Studio Worsted

CAP

The Diagonal Mitts by Karida Collins will fit anyone's hands, especially since you'll be knitting on the bias in garter stitch. A one-skein wonder, this is a terrific project for a new knitter, or a minimal-attention project for the experienced knitter looking for a break. Like its name suggests, Karida's Flash Caps are quick, easy, customizable hats that make great gifts. With two skeins of Studio Chunky yarn in each kit, you'll have enough to make multiple Flash Caps. Personalize them with stripes and zig-zags, or come up with your own designs using the pattern as a template.

SCARF

DUET

Kerrin (left) is wearing the cowl version of the Duet in Woodberry. Cameron wears the scarf version in Charles Village.

The Scarf-Cowl Duet uses the same stitch pattern in both accessories, and was designed with the idea that you can knit any length you want—either use up all 4 skeins for a full-length scarf, or stop a little early and seam the ends to create a cowl or neck-warmer.

This new tee design by Caitlin Hunter has delicate, wavy lace stripes reminiscent of sun breaking through cracks of ice. Glacial Light's short sleeves and cropped length are perfect for layering under a flannel or jacket, and worn with your favorite jeans or skirt.
