- c) The breeder Maine Aim Ranch Dogs guarantees this Pomsy/Border Collie/Corgi puppy to be in good health and guarantees that all age appropriate vaccines and dewormings have been performed. It is the responsibility of the new owner to have a Vet Check performed within the first 48hrs of receiving the puppy. If shipped the puppy may experience loose bowels and vomiting due to stress. Any and all tests performed will be at the owner's expense. If your puppy is found to have a lifethreatening illness within the 48 hr window or a genetic defect, the owner must notify breeder within 24 hrs by both email and phone. Both the Veterinarian's information and all records must be provided. If puppy dies, an autopsy must be performed to confirm reason of death. If it is found to be the breeder's responsibility by our vet and yours then the puppy will be fully replaced. At no time is Maine Aim Ranch Dogs liable for any tests or vet bills incurred by you at any time. The breeder cannot ever guarantee the exact coloring, markings, sizes or breeding ability of any Pup because these can not only change until adulthood, we cannot predict how you will care for the puppy as well.

*Also remember that the first week will be a transition. The puppy will be excited and nervous and this in combination with food and water change can cause loose stools for a couple of days but we always recommend consulting with your vet and always having a stool sample taken at the 48 hr check up. Dewormings should always be continued with vaccines until the puppy has completed at least 3 sometimes more... always consult with your vet.

- d) Guarantees the puppy to be free of any hereditary defects to the best of his/her knowledge. Should the puppy be diagnosed with Canine Hip Displaysia (CHD) or Collie Eye Anomaly (CEA) before its first birthday, Breeder will provide a replacement puppy from a current or future litter. - d) Keeping your Puppy Healthy
- e) We recommend that you schedule a checkup with your veterinarian to introduce your new puppy to him/her.
- f) With the medical information we sent with your puppy, your veterinarian will recommend a vaccination and deworming schedule that is right for your puppy.
- g) Your puppy has been on a regular deworming schedule that is outlined on the medical record sent with him/her.
- h) Parasites are common in puppies, and we make every effort to keep puppies parasite free with a regular deworming schedule. We cannot guarantee that no parasites exist, however, and puppies can easily reinfect themselves. As puppies grow to maturity, heartworms can become a problem, also. A regular deworming schedule recommended by your veterinarian will keep your puppy/dog happy and healthy.
- i) When your puppy arrives, he/she will have had its first puppy vaccination which will be noted on the medical record. We give Pfizer DA2PPv at approximately 6 1/2 weeks old. This vaccination helps protect your puppy against distemper, adenovirus type2 (hepatitis), parainfluenza, and the parvo virus. Parvo is a highly contagious virus. The first vaccination will begin to protect your puppy against parvo. However, until your puppy has had its last puppy shot at approximately 16 weeks of age, your puppy is at risk for the parvo virus. Therefore, we recommend that the puppy have limited exposure to public areas until that time. We ask that you give the remaining puppy shots approximately every 3 to 4 weeks until 16 weeks of age or in accordance with your veterinarian's recommendations.
