Some of the Features & Benefits

- Very strong and secure.
 13mm dowels and optional latches locate all the common beehive components so they cannot slide apart.
- Improved overwintering.
 The excellent thermal performance of the Technosetbee beehive and a healthy environment allows for the honeybees to survive cold and damp winters far better.
- Faster Spring Build-up.
 The additional warmth provided by the Technosetbee beehive encourages a faster build-up of new brood leading to a larger more productive work force earlier in the season.
- Cooler Temperatures in Summer.
 Again, because of the insulation, the internal beehive temperatures remain more consistent and the bees spend less time having to cool the hive.
- Fully compatible.
 Technosetbee products will work with most wooden beehive products in New Zealand.
- Superior strength and a long design life.
- Ready to go.
 Technosetbee products arrive ready to use saving thousands on labour costs.
- Different colour options.
 This seriously helps to reduce accidental drifting between beehives.
- Incorporated air vents.
 A vented base and strategically located vents at the top greatly reduces condensation.
- Varroa Optimised Design.
 The Technosetbee vented base allows mites to fall through the grid and out of the beehive where they perish.
- Excellent Investment. Easy for beginners to use and great for commercial beekeepers who enjoy efficiency and innovation.
- Fantastic value for money! With the extra years of life expectancy and greater hive efficiency, it puts the value a lot higher than a wooden beehive system!

NEW InstantVap Vaporizers

Commercial 18 or 12 volt Vaporizer

The InstantVap brings you a truly portable and easy to use, option for Vaporizing hives. Made in Europe, this machine is built to last. It runs on your common 18v power tool batteries, as shown below, or there is a 12v corded option. At only a few cents of OA per hive, vaporizing is a very popular tool in the Beekeepers kit against varroa. Typically a time consuming process, the InstantVap changes all that!

Why is Vaporizing effective?

- Less harsh - OA Vapor is considered a gentle treatment yet kills many mites
- Treat during the Honey Flow - Easy method of treatment, no need to pull hive apart.
- Integrate with other treatments - When other treatments struggle, vaporizing knocks them back
- Brood Breaks - Kill near 100% mites when there is no brood

Bee Health

Oxalic Acid & Glycerine Solutions

Beekeepers have been using Oxalic Acid mixed with Glycerine all over the world for many years. They find it extremely beneficial to the health of the colony. It can be used at any time of the year and the secret to its effectiveness is to maintain regular treatments. Colonies with high mite loadings have a lot of bees with stab wounds and suffering from virus infections. When Oxalic acid treatments are applied, many of these bees will go outside and die. This has even been observed during the night after a treatment on the previous day. If most of the bees are healthy, virtually zero adult bee mortality is observed.

The Beequip Strips were released to the market in 2020 and are proving very popular with commercial beekeepers in NZ. They are very low cost, effective, and environmentally friendly. The soaking equipment makes it easy & safe to soak the cardboard strips. The strips can be stored in convenient tubs with clip on lids, and safely carried to Apiary sites. New strips can be fitted in seconds while the beekeeper is carrying out their usual routine duties. Use 3 to 4 strips per BB (brood box). Locate next to brood as the bees must walk on it. See pages 7 & 8 in the instruction guide (on the website) for more very important information.

A few key points:-

1. Oxalic acid is exempt from the requirement of an MRL (Maximum Residue Level) in NZ when used as an agricultural compound for the control of Varroa.
2. Oxalic Acid (OA) is an approved substance for varroa control in NZ under the "Own use exemption".
3. OA is naturally present in all honey with a very large range of variation from one honey type to another.
4. There is nothing in NZ law that specifically states that OA cannot be used for varroa control while honey supers are present.

The best mix ratio for most applications has been observed to be 40% Oxalic Acid mixed with 60% Glycerine by weight. For example, heat 6kg of Glycerine in a stainless steel vessel to 50 degrees celsius then mix in 4kg of Oxalic Acid crystals. Allow time for it to dissolve. Stir gently. Don't overheat it! The liquid will be clear when mixed properly.

RobberGards

Deter those unwanted visitors

The RobberGard is an ingenious device to fool wasps and robber bees and stop them from getting into the colony. These unwanted visitors are guided to potential food in the hive largely by sense of smell. They go straight to the vent holes at bottom of the RobberGard and try to get in, without realizing the entrance is at the top. These intruders very soon give up and go looking for food elsewhere. The bees learn within 24 hours how to access their own hive and it doesn't stop them carrying out all their normal duties. Below are some features:

- The registered design is made from high quality stainless steel to withstand the corrosive elements outside and last for a very long time, virtually indefinitely.
- Deters robber bees that want to steal the food supplies inside.
- Deters social bees from other colonies that have a look and will mostly spread varroa mites.
- Deters wasps from robbing food from the colony.
- Helps to control spread of AFB disease. If a colony gets AFB and has this robber guard, it is far less likely to get robbed out and spread the disease, before the beekeeper finds it and burns it.
- Allows a lot more ventilation over winter (in hives with solid bases) to reduce condensation in the hives which is detrimental to the health of the colony.
- Easy to block up with foam rubber if the beehive has to be shifted. The bees can still get lots of ventilation through the robber guard vent holes.
- Very easy to mount, switch entries or remove with the stainless steel eye screws supplied by Beequip NZ.
- Has a summer position or rotate 180 degrees for the robbing season and winter. The entrance is just 25mm wide in this setting.

753-1020

Feedbee Patties are specially formulated to allow maximum digestion of all the rich nutrients. A 300g patty is sufficient for most beehive colonies. No artificial preservatives are added, which affect bee health negatively. No processed oils are added - they act as a laxative and cause bees to defecate lots of undigested food. Each patty is packed in a cellophane bag that keeps it moist and is 100% biodegradable.
