TERRANOBLE SAUVIGNON BLANC RESERVA - CASABLANCA VALLEY

https://gerrardseel.co.uk/products/terranoble-sauvignon-blanc-reserva-casablanca-valley

This wonderful Chilean Sauvignon Blanc comes from the cool climate of the Casablanca Valley between Santiago and Valpariaso. It is wonderfully fresh and vibrant with elegant aromas of citrus and tropical fruits and as you would expext, some touches of green capsicum as well. Very persistent in the finish, it makes for a terrific aperitif but also pairs well with fish and seafood.

The Casablanca Valley is one of the finest climates in South America for the production of white wines. It produces wines of great freshness and this is certainly a good example.

The TERRANOBLE range is made by Santa Camilla and each single grape variety shows both great typicity of the varietal and also the area. Wonderful wines of the highest quality.

ABOUT THE GROWER

In 1993, the founders of Sol De Andes embraced their dreams of taking full advantage of Chile's natural bounty to make great wines and founded their estate in the Maule Valley. The philosophy of Sol De Andes is to produce elegant and enjoyable wines that highlight the distinct characteristics of each grape variety by combining cutting-edge technology with traditional winemaking skills.

Poor soils, excellent exposure to sunshine and the absence of rain at harvest time are unique and invaluable conditions for the production of quality wines in Chile. On its daily journey over the Andes to the Pacific, the sun illuminates the vineyards and this was the inspiration for the Sol De Andes ("Sun From The Andes") name. The 450 hectares of Sol De Andes vineyards are located in the foothills of the Andes in the Maule, Casablanca and Colchagua Valleys where the influence of the Pacific moderates the climate and where the diurnal temperature fluctuation preserves the balance and freshness of the wines.

The Sol De Andes winery sits next to its oldest vineyards in San Clemente in the Maule Valley, where cutting-edge technology and traditional winemaking skills are combined to enable them to make the best possible wines.
