CUSTOM RINGS

SPECIFICATION SHEET

Styles

What style of ring would you like to achieve?

CLASSIC SOLITAIRE RING

Looking for something classic and simple? A solitaire with minimal detail will give the centre gemstone the main focus. Customize it with a basic band and a setting that holds the stone in place.

MODERN

Create a modern look with smooth silhouettes using the bezel setting and smooth metal outlines.

METAL BANDS

A custom matching wedding band is important. Designed to fit with any size and shape of your engagement ring, to compliment its shape and colour. A well designed wedding band will make a nice stand alone piece when not worn with its engagement ring counterpart. A ring band with accented gemstones can also make for great stacking rings.

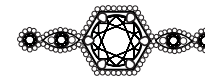

MULTI-STONE RING (CENTRE STONES & SIDE STONES)

Want a little more detail than a stand alone stone? Consider pairing three stones together for more interest and uniqueness.

NATURE INSPIRED RING

Seasons come and go but not if you have a part of it distilled in metal that you can wear everyday. From a stylized interpretation of your favourite flora & fauna to real imprinted textures and castings. Consider how you can add a touch of nature's silhouettes in your ring.

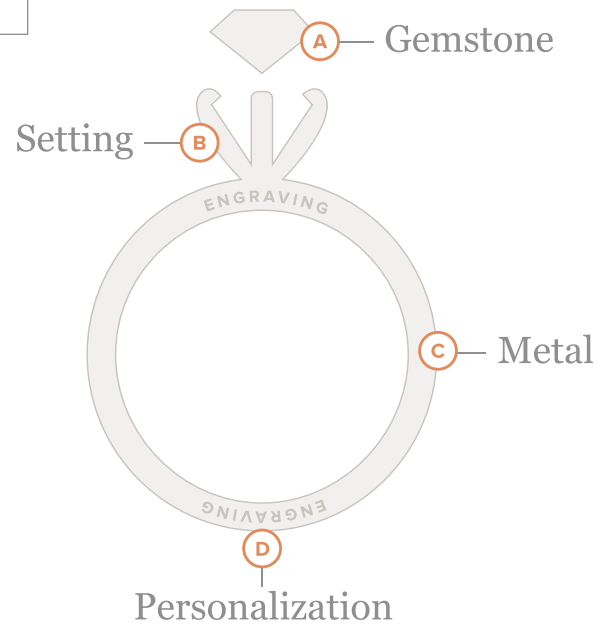

VINTAGE RINGS

Taking elements from vintage jewellery like milgrain detail, filigree, and geometric shapes, we can develop a contemporary twist on your favourite decade of jewellery.

Anatomy

Breakdown of Customizable Ring Components.

A

Gemstone

The gemstone is regarded as the defining piece of the ring that gives the jewellery its personality, story, and sparkle. You can choose your preference for shape, cut, and colour, or you can even provide a previously-owned stone to be redesigned.

B

Setting

The style of a setting plays an important part in accentuating the beauty of a gemstone. Even as the metal hugs the stone in place, it can be considered a miniature sculpture, with every side and angle carefully designed. The setting helps define the look of your ring, whether it is classic and sleek, or a unique vintage style.

C

Metal

Different colours of gold are achieved through combining metal alloys – the higher the karat, the higher the gold content. Some other metals typically used in fine jewellery are platinum and palladium.

D

Personalization

You can further tell your story through adding text, patterns, or shapes to your ring with an engraving. Engravings can be placed on the edge or inside of a ring. For example, Rebecca and Joey's bands have a hidden encryption on the insides of their wedding bands, only legible when both their rings are pieced together reading, "LOVE ALWAYS."

A Gemstone

1. Choose a gemstone.
2. What shape would you like the gemstone to be cut?
3. If it's a Diamond, consider the 4 C's.

3 The 4 C's of Diamonds

When choosing the right diamond that suits your needs, there are four characteristics to consider: cut, colour, clarity, and carat. Price and quality of the diamond will differ depending on what part of the scale you choose. If you're having trouble deciding what your best options are, considering your price range will help dictate the size and quality of the diamond.

Cut
 Refers to the facets on the diamond and how it sparkles and reflect light. There are 5 grades ranging from excellent to poor.

Colour
 Ranges from colourless to light yellow tint which is graded from letters D to Z.

Clarity
 Refers to the inclusions (blemishes) in the stone and its visibility. Clarity is graded by flawless, very very slightly included (vvs), very slightly included (vs), slightly included (si), or included (i) and variants in between.

Carat
 Carat is a unit to measure a diamond's weight and size. A 1 carat round diamond can vary in diameter of 6.2-6.8mm depending on its depth.

B Setting

3 Past Concepts

Matching Wedding Bands

Rebecca & Joey's ring was based off the idea of having matching rings. The concept was to have an engraving that aligns when both rings sits on top of one another.

Bridal Set

Dayna wanted to have a matching Bridal Set for her engagement and Wedding ring. Using a customized shape so that the rings lock into place, the bridal set sits snug with one another to make a beautiful paired ring.
