AMERICAN BARRIERS AND CONTROLS USES BIOBLEND BIOFLO AW 32 HYDRAULIC OIL IN LANDMARKS THROUGHOUT THE USA

Elk Grove Village, IL (March 16, 2015) - American Barrier and Controls, LLC, a perimeter security company located in Foxboro, Massachusetts, recently selected BioBlend BioFlo AW 32 for use in their barrier protection system installations and maintenance throughout North America. The installation and maintenance of these systems provides facilities protection against physical security threats.

"Installing and maintaining security barrier systems for our high visibility customers requires top-quality lubricants to avoid serious system malfunctions. That is why we have chosen American-made BioBlend high performance bio-based lubricants," states David Abromson, senior vice president of American Barriers and Controls.

American Barrier and Controls has used BioBlend BioFlo AW 32 in a number of high profile locations, including various facilities for the FBI, NASA, United States Army, United States Navy, Honeywell, and Lockheed Martin. Landmark facilities such as the Hoover Dam, MetLife Stadium, United Nations, and Citi Field are all protected with barrier systems using BioFlo AW 32.

BioFlo AW 32 is a high performance, readily biodegradable hydraulic oil designed to meet the application demands of mobile and industrial hydraulic systems across a broad range of operating conditions. American Barriers has seen an increase in lubricant performance since converting to BioBlend products and is able to ensure the quality service and security levels that their customers have grown to expect.
