CAROLINA REAPER

In 2013, Guinness Book of World Records declared the Carolina Reaper the “World’s Hottest Pepper.”

Relatively easy to grow, but hard-to-find seeds anywhere else! This infamous pepper has a fruity and sweet/hot aroma, with a pleasant undertone of chocolate/cherry taste. Flavor is certainly not sacrificed for the extreme heat.

No two Carolina Reapers are the same. Each has a unique taste, nutritional profile, pod shape, and plant growth.

This is a great value because a little goes a long way; a quarter pod will heat a full pot of chili or spaghetti sauce.

GERMINATION INSTRUCTIONS

Wet Paper Towel Method:

You will need: seeds, paper towels, re-sealable plastic bags, waterproof marker, spray bottle and water (if using tap water, let it sit out for 24 hours to evaporate any chlorine)

1. Mark each plastic bag with the type of seed you are growing.
2. Spray the paper towel with water to dampen.
3. Sprinkle the seeds onto half the paper towel and fold over.
4. Seal the bag, leaving about 1" open to allow oxygen flow.
5. Place the baggie flat in a warm (80-85 degree) area with moderate light.
6. Re-spray paper towel with water if it dries out over time.

Note: Germination could take anywhere from a few days to 6 weeks.

Once seeds develop a small tail or sprout, they are ready to transplant into pods.
