FLUSH EDGE OR FINGERLIFT TAPE?

Fingerlift tape is 3mm from

One of the questions we are often asked is the difference between these two tape types.

On flush tape the backing paper is the same width as the adhesive strip.

On fingerlift the backing paper is 3mm wider each side than the adhesive strip.

Fingerlift makes it far quicker to remove the backing paper for the second stage of assembly and is especially worthwhile for longer runs of work.

We produce many other tapes, widths and roll lengths. Please contact us to discuss your specific requirements.

When you need tapes that can be trusted, we're here for you.

PET BINDING COVERS

With standard wire bound documents, all of the document can be recycled except the PVC covers, which are very difficult to recycle and often end up in landfill.

In contrast, PET - as used for Coke bottles is the most commonly recycled plastic. We now stock covers made from the more sustainable PET as we work towards being a more eco-aware company.

PET RECYCLABLE COVERS

240 micron thickness fully recyclable clear PET covers are available in packs of 100 and 1000, in A4 or A3. These covers are made using part recycled PET.

PET covers are more heat-resistant than PVC and are suited for binding systems using heat.

LAMINATING FILMS

High quality Presco OPP thermal laminating films for all print. Laminating digital print doesn't need to be complicated, you may just need to use a stronger adhesive, like our level 5 or level 7 films

GUIDE TO FILM ADHESIVE STRENGTH LEVELS

FOR LAMINATING FILMS ADHESIVE LEVEL

- The industry standard for everyday laminating but is not suitable for heavy ink coverage and some digital work.
- Level 5 is the highest adhesion available from most suppliers. Digital printers are increasingly using this for reliable results.
- The top level when no other laminate will stick. It will give a super high adhesion.

LAMINATION & ENCAPSULATION

- WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE?

The word 'laminating' is used to talk about laminating, pouch laminating and encapsulating, but there are differences. Lamination is usually a single sided process for enhancement of print. Encapsulation is a double sided process that completely seals the print and is primarily for protection, not enhancement, of print. Pouch laminators completely enclose the print, so they are actually mini encapsulation machines, not laminators! New digital laminates for use with roll laminators now have many different options to enhance your print and transform it into something special.

ENCAPSULATION FILMS

These films vary from laminating films as they are always applied to both sides of the substrate at the same time.

The 75 micron to 250 micron films are much thicker than laminating films and there is more adhesive on them. In particular, the 125 micron and 250 micron films will stick successfully to almost any printed work (subject to testing first).

MAGNETIC CLAMP PADS

Magnetic clamp pads for paper cutting guillotines take away the problem of unsightly markings from the metal hydraulic clamp. Particularly beneficial when cutting laminated stock or carbon papers, NCR or delicate stocks. Made from a 2mm magnetic rubberised layer and a 5mm high density foam, these pads provide the cushioning to cope with almost every material being cut, and protect the guillotine blade as well. Supplied in a pack of 2, will stick to metal surfaces of your guillotine for easy access.

"What an excellent service this company runs. Just wish there were more like it in British business. I needed to obtain a suction cup for a new product my company is working on, to check its strength, quality and fixture capabilities. Was prepared to buy one but used the free sample service which came first class post. The suction cup is ideal and as there are 4 on each product there could be an order for thousands coming when manufacturing starts. Thank you Presco."
