Why is this online CSTF NHS Conflict Resolution (England) training course essential?

It is essential that staff feel safe in their working environments. Violent behaviour not only affects them personally but indirectly, it hurts the standard of service and the delivery of patient care. In terms of tackling violence against staff, Conflict Resolution Training (CRT) is a crucial preventative tool. It forms part of a range of measures introduced to make the NHS a safer place to work. It is not sufficient to react to incidents after they occur; ways of reducing the risk of events occurring and preventing them from happening in the first place must be found.

The detail in this subject reflects the Conflict Resolution Training guidance as provided by NHS Protect (2013), now superseded by the NHS Counter Fraud Authority.
