WHITE CHOCOLATE MATCHA BARK

YOU WILL NEED

12 oz good white chocolate,
chopped or in chips

1 ½ tsp ground cardamom seed

1 Tbsp Seiwa matcha or 3 Tbsp Amai Matcha

¾ cup freeze-dried raspberries

TO MAKE

1. Line an 8-inch by 8-inch pan with wax or parchment paper. Let plenty of paper hang over the edges so you can easily lift the bark once it is set.
2. Place two-thirds of the white chocolate in a double boiler or a stainless steel bowl placed over a pot of steaming water (medium high heat), stirring constantly until melted (5-10 minutes or 111° if you have a candy thermometer). Don't let the bottom of the bowl touch the water or water get into the bowl.
3. Add the rest of the white chocolate and continue stirring until it is 88°.
4. Sift the matcha and cardamom into the chocolate and stir until smooth.
5. Pour the chocolate into your lined pan, evenly sprinkle the dried raspberries over the top and gently press them into the bark.
6. Once it has cooled, you can cut or break the bark into pieces and keep it at room temperature for 2-4 days if you didn't temper your chocolate or a week or more if you did.
