

Footwear Range 2022

About our Footwear

Our new range of Medical Grade Footwear has been carefully selected to meet the diverse needs of our customers and their patients and comply with International Guidelines.

Flexible Rocker Sole to assist a normal heel to toe gait pattern

Semi-Rigid Rocker Sole provides stability and resists excessive movement in the foot and medial column

Rigid Rocker Sole for optimal offloading, stability and immobilisation

Working together, PPL and Podartis have delivered Italian styled medical grade footwear solutions to Ireland for over 25 years. Podartis have worked with leading researchers to develop a unique and comprehensive range of footwear dedicated to the prevention and management of foot pathology and disease.

PPL's Podartis range includes multiple last fittings, styles, upper materials, closures and sole flexibilities. Designed to accommodate a broad range of foot shapes, foot deformities and orthotic devices, improve mobility, and address preventative and offloading needs.

PPL have worked with Optima Molliter supplying their innovative, research backed range of diabetic foot offloading devices for the last 8 years. This Italian family have been manufacturing comfort footwear for generations, and on a foundation of scientific research have become recognised as industry leaders in the diabetic foot.

PPL's new range of Optima footwear includes a wide choice of styles, colours, upper materials, closures and sole flexibilities. Optima footwear is designed to accommodate a wider foot shape, toe deformities and orthotic devices. They aim to improve mobility, and address preventative and offloading needs.

Optima and Podartis are EU Medical Device Regulation registered manufacturers.

Footwear Prescription Guidelines

The guidelines below may assist in making the process of fitting footwear easier and less liable to error. Use our Footwear Selection Chart to find the most suitable options based on your patients' needs.

1. Measure Foot Length & Width

Take a Foot Sketch

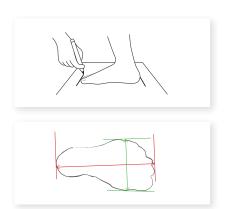

Stand patient on sheet of paper and draw around the foot keeping the pen at 90°.

Measure the Length of the Foot

Draw a horizontal line at the back of the heel and a parallel line at the tip of the longest toe. Measure the length of each foot between these two lines in mm and record.

Measure the Width of the Forefoot

Draw a vertical line at both sides of the forefoot at the widest point. Measure forefoot width between these two lines in mm and record.

2. Review Sizing Charts

Using the foot width and length measurements from your sketch, review sizing charts on Page 7 to identify footwear options.

We have allowed for a minimum of 1 cm and a maximum of 1.5 cm extra length in front of the toe, as per international guidelines.

3. Select Style & Sole Flexibility

Sole Flexibility - Select a flexible, semi-rigid or rigid sole in accordance with patients' offloading, stability and immobilisation needs.

Depth - Select a deeper last for patients with toe deformities or when devices are prescribed with a thickness of over 8 mm.

Upper - Select a stretchy upper material for patients with toe deformities. This will also provide extra width and depth.

Fastening - Select footwear with straps or panels for easy closure.

Stability - Boots offer more stability than shoes.

Use the Footwear Selection Chart to choose the most suitable options based on your patients' needs.
