

Building Her Future Party

Frequently Asked Questions

What does a BHF party look like?

A BHF party is a unique event where your friends gather to connect and shop with products handmade by artisans who have overcome extreme challenges. Watch a brief video and discover the powerful stories behind our designs. Style yourself and your friends with jewelry sent to you and simply order from the full collection online. Each purchase helps create dignified jobs in vulnerable communities in India and Thailand.

Any tips on talking about this serious topic?

It's natural to feel nervous talking about the realities of the trafficking industry, but know that the videos and materials we have created are uplifting, inspirational and full of hope. A key goal of BHF parties is to create awareness of the issue to spur action through purchase, donation or sponsorship. And that builds futures!

Is it appropriate for children/men to attend?

Yes! We believe everyone can play a part in creating solutions for world-wide challenges, and through our uplifting videos and party environment, many will be inspired to respond, regardless of age or gender.

How many guests should I invite?

There is no set number, but statistics prove only ¼ will come. The more invitations you send, the more rewarding the party... and the more impact you have in the world! And, we have a brainstorming checklist to help get your guest list started.

What if I have out-of-town family & friends?

The beauty of a BHF party is that you can invite friends and family even if they don't live near you. By shopping online, they get free shipping AND their impact is equal to those who order at your party!

How long is the average party?

There is no set length of time, but most successful events run 1½ - 2 hours, allowing flexibility for guests to hear our story, shop, and enjoy the connection.

What if some guests cannot make it?

It's inevitable. Not everyone will be able to come to your event, so if you get "regrets," encourage each person to order online. They'll be able to leverage your FREE SHIPPING code too! Although they will be missed at the party, their support through an online purchase, donation or sponsorship will make equal impact as those who attend!

Where can I host a BHF party?

Your BHF party box is mobile... so feel free to host a party in your home, a local coffee house or café, a church, in the office, or other local establishments with a private room. If there are socially-sustainable businesses in your area, connect to see if you could partner by hosting at their business.

May I host a party jointly with a friend?

Joint hosting can be a lot of fun & double the impact... so we say YES! We send up to two host gifts per party, so be sure to communicate your dual-host intentions with our team.

What refreshments should I serve?

Keep food and drinks simple. Bite-sized munchies that don't require a plate or fork are ideal: fruit or cheese trays, or a dessert theme with sweets and coffee are solid choices. The goal is to connect with guests and provide a unique experience with purpose.

How are the products delivered to my guests?

Since you and your guests will be purchasing products online, orders will be delivered directly to the customer through the U.S. Postal Service.

How long will it take for products to arrive?

Shipping will only take 3-7 business days since all purchases are made online.
