PREPARATION FOR SPRING CAMPING

The start of Daylight Saving Time and the beginning of spring herald the spring camping season by bringing with them the promise of longer and warmer days. Sometimes it's challenging to prepare for your spring camping trip because of the erratic weather. Prepare in advance for your spring camping.

Spring Camping Weather

Checking the forecast before your spring camping trip is the most crucial step! You will first be aware of the clothing to pack. Next, you'll fill the appropriate boots for days when it's rainy or snowy. Additionally, looking at the forecast might help you decide if you need to pack extra petrol, propane, a blanket, and other items.

1. Unpredictable Weather: The spring season in the US, particularly in the Pacific Northwest, is characterized by erratic weather patterns. The weather will vary from sunny and 50 degrees one day to chilly or wet the next.
2. Prepare for Rain: You'll likely be camping in the springtime while it's raining. You can stay warm and dry by bringing waterproof boots, a jacket, towels, dry bags, and tarps.
3. Prepare for Temperature Differences: When camping in the spring, clothing is crucial because morning and evening temperatures might vary considerably. Depending on the temperature outside, you can add or remove layers.
4. Prepare for Mud: Mud is coming with the rain showers! The extra pair of shoes or rain boots will be helpful then. These boots are ideal for children!

Spring Camping Planning

There is truly nothing like the first night of spring outside. There are very few creepy crawlies, and the woods always welcome you back with open arms. Spring camping isn't all sunshine and roses. Spending the night in the woods in March or April can be chilly, and there are always the April showers to worry about.

1. Check Opening Dates: When preparing for a spring camping vacation, confirm the opening dates of any campgrounds closed over the winter. Even campers without reservations must agree to this. You want the campground to be open when you get there.
2. Book Your Spring Campgrounds: Popular campgrounds fill up quickly and frequently months in advance. It could be challenging to reserve your preferred campsite if you're camping over spring break or a holiday weekend.
3. Last-Minute Reservation: Being adaptable with your schedule, location, or camping style is helpful for last-minute reservations.
4. Check Your Mail Regularly: In case of a cancellation, you can regularly check your reservation email for released campsites or try your luck with a walk-up site.

TOP TIPS FOR SPRING CAMPING

To go spring camping, you must be well-prepared and have realistic expectations. Avoid being stranded in a chilly, drenched environment. Here are some suggestions to help you get the most out of your experience if you're thinking of camping in the spring.

1. Check Your Gear: Take your equipment out of storage and ensure it's all in working order. Even if your equipment has been in storage for a while, there's a good possibility you'll discover issues you had yet to see previously. Verify that all the tent's pegs and poles are in place, and check the tent for holes and mold.
2. Prepare Your Meals: Eating well while camping is essential. Remember that spring follows winter and occasionally gets too chilly, especially at night. It would be best if you made suitable preparations for your meals.

3. Notice The Wildlife: As animals emerge from hibernation in the spring, there is an increase in animal activity. While some animals are giving birth, others, like bears, elk, deer, and goats, will be out hunting for food.
