

Animal Testing

After buying and proliferating a false evolution party line for all or most of their careers, most modern scientists find it impossible to divert from that easily provable false paradigm in which careers have been made. This persona issue however will not change the fact that the entire fossil record from the earth's surface and down to much deeper levels proves only one thing over and over again, that all the animals just showed up at once, with verifiably no intermediate levels of evolutionary design between any of them. Simply, no alleged "missing links".

The Animal Narrative

THE ANIMALS ARE HERE AS YET ANOTHER CONTROL NARRATIVE! Simply put, there is absolutely not one reason, scientific or otherwise for there to be any animal life on this planet at all, not one.

- The sea does NOT need any fish or Mammals to continue being the sea. A body which is most responsible for cleansing the finite amount of oxygen contained within this closed system.
- The planet does NOT need any life forms at all to exist, and exists flourishing greatly. One might say the earth and its plant life require the existence of Bee's, however the wind also aids the needed pollination process, and again without all the animals, much less humans, there isn't that large of a need for the bee's additional aid.
- Fish are not required to clean the ocean as many tend to believe. Certain fish are known to consume the excrement of other sea life, but ONLY because the other sea life exist. If none existed the oceans and seas would take care of themselves.
- If all animals were gone tomorrow, the only change to mankind would be his diet. Along with a massive reduction in Methane build up from the out-gassing of large animals.

This is SUCH a simple truth and so easily understood once you allow yourself to fully absorb the idea. Animals are NOT NEEDED on this planet. Not for the planet, and certainly not to sustain our lives. That is unless you are murdering and eating them.

Gen 1- 28 "The Eternal formed the man from the dry ground; breathed into his nostrils the Soul of life; and man became a living-soul. The Eternal made him to Grow, to multiply, fill the earth, to walk upon it, maintain husbandry over the fish of the sea, the birds of the heavens, and all life that moves on the land." 29 The Eternal instructed: ' I give you every herb yielding seed that is on the surface of the entire land, every tree that has seed yielding fruit – it will be yours for food, 30 and for every beast of the earth, and to every bird of the heaven, and to everything that moves on the earth wherein there is a living Soul of Life, every green herb is for food.' The Eternal saw all He had made, and saw perfect order."

Interesting and exactly as I have shown these texts to be when truthfully and accurately translated - NOT in the vein of DOMINION in any destructive sense, but HUSBANDRY! And NOT Flesh as food, but EVERY tree that has fruit and EVERY green plant as food for BOTH man, and all animals in which resides the same living-soul! The above translation is a literal translations from my not yet published Ben' Asher Torah, and it is very accurate.

Mechanics of the Narrative

The real question for you and everyone now needs to be, WHY were the animals put here in the first place? Not for work! We know this because there was no work to be done within the Eden construct, so work is out. And of course not for eating. So why?

Answer – The animals were put here to continue testing all the souls of man – the souls IMPETUOUS!

More simply stated, all souls are having their capacity for MERCY and LOVE tested, their individual and collective impetus to finally return, and follow to a fault, The Eternal Creators Free Will System, under which hangs His Everlasting Agreement! The Living-Souls which reside in both man and the animals are considered to be equal in the consciousness of the Eternal One, they are tested and audited continually by the constant existence of the all life around them. Life forms that can so easily be “determined” or “rationalized” as lower or lesser beings. Especially so when the evil intention of certain human-Living-souls teach all others that it is gods will for man to utilize all “lower” beings as a renewable resource.

Moreover, by such a determination for Good & Life or for Evil & Death, all living-souls are continually audited. And by this you will be judged, which means those living-souls will be recycled back to this lower creation until the souls awaken, and return to the path of the Everlasting Agreement, which as most should understand by this point to be far more than just a diet.

The Souls True Impetuous

It is easily understood and identifiable that the Eternal One has many people/souls in various phases of His field tilling process. Most lay fallow due to various false religious narratives, some further along than others, all unknowingly on their way to this path of the Everlasting Agreement. Then we have others, unfortunately far enough along to find, learn and begin living this path of the Everlasting Agreement, i.e. returning to our souls original state of being, only to sway back and forth over that line, adding and subtracting old superstitions as lost, reprogrammed souls do, remaining mired in false narratives. While others who are nearly ready to fully embrace it, tend to find ways to stand just on the far side of The Eternal’s line, blocked by their paradigm. All grievous for someone in my position to watch, for sure, but inevitable at this juncture prior to a mass renewal of all souls.

As one who remains open and highly observant of human proclivity, I have found that some can be pushed over that line by various means. Some by more technical understandings of corrected religious texts and cultural superstitions, while others need a more scientific approach to get them rolling over that line, and keeping them there.

Then there are all the rest, who I believe, or want to believe to be the majority of this late remnant. Those who “believe” they have done and finalized all the work of Teshuvah in their hearts, minds and soul, but from my perspective and understanding, may need to squeeze out a bit more. Harboring the tendency to fear some of that may be my fault, for possibly not explaining certain details as succinctly as I could have, I started rewriting and adding large sections to my “Land of Meat & Honey” book in 2014. It took several years of reader feedback for me to better understand their Christianized, and even Muslim perspectives at that level of teaching. We are from two different worlds, so they are always teaching me, how to better teach them.

A personal story for clarification on the depth and breadth of this path

We have some longtime friends, a married couple a bit older than us who have embraced this path for several years now. However, inside me I have known that there is something amiss with one of them, possibly both. As most people do, they too tend to find rationalizations for getting around things when it suits. For some time I believed the real issue was with him, in fact about one year ago I found out it was him because my wife stumbled upon them at a local restaurant with meat on his plate. However since then we have had many discussions on this topic, and I could hear his tune changing on a more visceral, emotional level where it concerned the slaughter of animals for no reason, or at all. In fact, while visiting us recently, and while speaking to our wives on the topic of the African Lion that was recently murdered just previous to their visit, I watched my friend get very emotionally charged over the Lion incident. Even expressing that now he cannot see any animal being killed for sport or food, and that it bothers him deeply when he sees it. So evidently he stopped eating meat long enough to be cleansed fully, which finally changed him as I have thankfully watched occur in so many people.

Of course, never missing a chance to chime in with a booster shot of Everlasting Agreement immunization I made certain to reassure his position, and reassert why he now feels what even he perceives as a literal pain within him over the destruction of innocents. However, I was not expecting to hear what came next out of his wife. On the heels of my Everlasting Agreement booster his wife blurted out how she still cannot see the issue with the killing of say, a chicken. To say the least she surprised me, as I had long believed her to be the one who signed on to this obvious path for sustaining all life at all costs, first. So, based on her point I began to re-explain what I consider to be a painfully obvious point in all this, that it is NOT a diet! Reasserting that what other people merely SEE as your dietary choices, is the outward proof of the required and subsequent inward change! Proof that their evil control narratives no longer control you, and proof that your Living-Soul has now regained control over all incoming perceptions, and outgoing intention!

The Souls Impetuous Drives our Intention

Now, this is where I want the reader to start seeing how the vital proof is in the smallest detail. I believe The Eternal One can easily see our various levels of progress from within our Living-Souls, down to the smallest impetuous. Just as we can identify the more obvious stages by the actions of those around us.

Continuing my personal story to amplify this point; when our friends visit here, she likes to leave the house and walkabout the land because she “loves” nature. Now, during our conversation about the chicken rational I brought this to her attention because I knew she would remember. Every time over a span of 20+ years when we have been together here on our land, or theirs, invariably, when she sees a flower or plant that she likes, she rips them out of the ground and brings them into my house, or theirs.

Now, every time for over 20 yrs., upon my observation of this proclivity I would ask her; ‘why did you pull those flowers out of the ground?’ And her answer has always been, ‘because I thought they were beautiful’.... Or, ‘I wanted them for the house’....

To which I always answer; ‘but didn’t they look beautiful over there in the ground?’... And I leave it at that. For 20+ years I have been lightly prodding her to SEE her own impetuous! That same soul-impetuous that allows her or anyone to take life out of the ground for no reason other than their personal gratification! This is the exact same impetuous that also allows her, or anyone else to rationalize why a chicken is no different.

Am I splitting hairs? Is it mere semantics? She thought so, citing that she just cannot understand where I was coming from with the chicken, much less a flower! That is exactly where people lose me, because I really do not have a way to UN-teach sociopathic behavior in any soul. If one is so blocked that they truly cannot understand why killing living things, much less sentient beings for your own personal gain is not positive or life reinforcing, then no human or earthly thing can help you yet. Surely, my flower example totally threw her, as it has done too many others. She just wasn't making the connection.

Not wanting her to remain in the rear with the gear, I pushed on with my explanation. I explained that she missed my main point; it's NOT that the Eternal One is up there getting mad at her or anyone else for pulling flowers. However, it does show Him and anyone else who has reached this level of awareness that the "IMPETUOUS" of that soul is NOT yet fully "returned" or "elevated". WHY? Because you were still able to rationalize taking that which you did not truly need! It's NOT about the flower! It's about YOUR Living-Soul and WHERE you are on His path back, that's all.

Consent and Free Will

The same person says, 'I love horses', but does that horse WANT or YEARN to have 200 pounds of fat butt on his back all day? Do any alleged "horse lovers" ever ASK the horse its consent?

Do you have off days? Are there days when you feel low for various reasons, or stressed, or uncomfortable physically, etc.? Yes, of course! Well, then like those flowers, why does a human not even consider for one second how an animal like a horse feels on any given day? Why is it ok to just go in that barn, saddle the horse, throw some guy or gals chunky butt up there and drive out of that barn like it's the family wagon, without a care in the world for that horses feelings, much less their free will on any given day. "Oh, but I LOVE my horses". No, you LOVE to OWN that horse, and ownership is slavery regardless how well the slaves are treated. Bottom line; for most large animals, no one, regardless of what they "believe" they feel for a given large "working" animal, considers them with even the most basic level of consideration for their souls free will compared to how they might consider it with most people. Why? Because their IMPETUOUS is NOT to consider anything outside of their contrived paradigm regardless of the words they use, like LOVE. I know, it all sounds so extreme, but can't you see, THAT'S THE TEST!

This is the true reason for the animals' creation within our garden, or any other creation! If all the Living-Souls have been created equally and from the exact same source, which is exactly what the Hebrew texts of Genesis express, then why house some souls in these alleged "higher" human bodies, and others within those alleged "lower" life form bodies?

Angels of light who trick, misguide and subdue mankind!

I heard of this Hebrew guy some years back who simply said, 'now go and do no further sin'.... And what is sin? Everything that is in direct opposition to The Eternal One's Freewill system, under which hangs His Everlasting Agreement. The lynch-pin is "Mercy".

Amazingly the simple example of "other" soul-entities who have resided in a slightly higher plain of creation, those who have been mistreating all other "lower" soul-entities below them from ancient times to our own, along with their eventual judgement for this anti-freewill practice, etc., continues to be misunderstood by most souls within this creation level. Meaning, by their continual false narratives and the mind/soul control they induce, they have made the souls below them “in their image”. As above, so below! This is their motto! As they have contrived to mistreat all the living-souls “below” them in this creation, so have our souls learned to mistreat all the souls “below” us! In their image! “By way of deception”,

They continue to reside above us for a time. They were the first to break The Eternal Ones first law of Free Will, by breaking His law of the Everlasting Agreement. Their next act was to get all other souls here to follow their example, to be remade in the image of their low character; and to continue in this behavior continuously by usurping the freewill of all those we consider to be lower “beings”. We have been their test, and all life on this planet has been our test! It is just that simple.

All souls, throughout all levels of creation have their souls impetuous tested by the single factor of “mercy”. Our Living-souls are continuously judged in real time by our outward intention and capacity to apply mercy in regards to another’s free will and need, and or our ability to rationalize our usurpation of their free will, and ignore their need. In this latter image, our souls were not created!

So yes, many people believe they have made Teshuvah – returned completely, but have they? Is it not wise to ponder and ask; where is His cut off? Is His cut off – ‘I desire mercy and not murder?’ Thus, all flowers and other non-sentient nature be dammed as long as we have enough mercy in us to know better than to murder the sentient for our own gain? Or is it – ‘If you lose your life, you will gain it?’ I wonder, does this course reach from the wanton uprooting of flowers to the allowance of an evil person taking your life without a fight? Is that the true final level of Teshuvah?

A wiser question may be; ‘who wants to just call it good and roll those dice?’

Better to work daily at perfecting ones soul-impetuous and be caught someday in the middle of working towards perfection, than to be caught where you started believing it good enough.

Do you now see how galactically important it is for as many souls as possible to get this correct, and as quickly as possible?
