New Kindness Curriculum Inspires Children to be World Changers

Raising a new generation of World Changers who are dedicated to making the world a better place for everyone

Libertyville, IL (March 2nd, 2017) - Fox and Trove is on a mission to empower kids to be World Changers by teaching them how to be kind and brave. The launch of their new Kindness Curriculum, 'World Changers in the Classroom[™]', compliments their current portfolio of kindness assembly programs for preschools and kindergarten classrooms, Camp Kind, a summer camp for kids ages 3-6 and Kind and Brave graphic tees for all ages.

World Changers in the Classroom[™] is a kindness curriculum designed to help young learners develop the skills necessary for positive social-emotional development. In age-appropriate, play-based lessons, the kindness curriculum focuses on the important kindness and bravery skills of empathy, self-calming, emotion regulation, conflict resolution, resilience, inclusion, acts of kindness and the concept of being a world changer. Teaching these skills to children during the early formative years of 3 - 6 helps to instill positive behaviors before negative behaviors take shape, and provide children with the tools they need to succeed socially, emotionally and academically.

"Inspiring children to be World Changers is at the heart of everything we do at Fox and Trove, and it's the reason we wrote this kindness curriculum. We want to help raise a new generation of little activists; peaceful and empowered World Changers who use their voice for positive social change!", shared Jami Schaer, founder of Fox and Trove.

This is a true passion project for Jami and Laura, co-owners of Fox and Trove. In a world that seems to be filled with so much hate and violence, they believe real social change is needed. In addition to teaching skills like empathy, which is at the core of healthy social-emotional development, World Changers in the Classroom[™] also teaches the importance of inclusion, acceptance of others, and how our differences make the world so cool.

Lessons center around the two concepts of kindness and bravery, creating an important balance children need to thrive in school and out in the world. Children who are kind and brave have balance. They are empathetic yet strong, confident yet gentle. They are givers but not doormats. They receive graciously and without entitlement.

“We want to teach children how to be strong and resilient but also kind and giving” co-owner Laura Wood explains. “Children who genuinely care about others but also have the ability to establish boundaries and care for themselves as well. This is why we wholeheartedly believe in the balance of kindness and bravery.”

According to Fox and Trove, ‘Kindness + Bravery = Resilient Happiness.’ What more could we want for our future generation of World Changers?
