A sculptural design that inspires boundless creativity

Normann Copenhagen presents Deko Objects, a captivating addition to its collection of design accessories. Designed by Studio Yolk, the sculptural and multipurpose objects seek to evoke personal expression and creativity. The Deko Objects come in various sizes and colors of Sage, Lemon, Hazel and Snow, allowing users to stack and arrange them for any desired purpose and expression. Whether as a decorative element, a vase, or a functional storage container, Deko seamlessly blends the realms of functionality, design and art.

The process of designing Deko Objects began with a pitch to create a decorative object, provided by Head of Brand, Britt Bonnesen, who is highly involved in curating Normann Copenhagen's accessories selection. A process that initially proved a creative challenge for the design studio, who aim to create pieces that bring added value to the lives of consumers by uniting functionality and aesthetics – something which a decorative object essentially does not. The result, although ornamental at its very core, as emphasized by its name, is infused with pragmatism.

“The simplicity of the design is deceptive, as it possesses immense versatility. By rearranging the objects and altering their stacking order and angles, one can achieve new expressions and evoke fresh feelings, making it a design that can continue to surprise for years to come” says Morten Linde and Pernille Iben, the couple behind Studio Yolk.

Offering versatility through rearrangement, Deko Objects allows for fresh expressions and emotions while catering to numerous uses spanning from artistic sculpture to practical container to decorative vase. The possibilities are limitless, enabling the user to create any desired configuration to match mood, style and atmosphere.
