STELLAR ANGLES

Diane Kordas designs the kind of jewelry that gets commented on at dinner parties, yet looks equally good paired with jeans and a tee. Kordas, who splits her time between New York, London, and Greece, takes an innovative approach to materials and color, incorporating technicolored titanium, leather, diamonds, and more into her pieces, which are always set in 18-karat gold. For her angular Eclipse collection of rings and ear cuffs, the designer took inspiration from the rugged landscape of Iceland and the frenetic energy of Cubism. www.dianekordasjewellery.com

Accessories

Love for sale

Partners in life and business, Reinhard Mieck and Melissa Morris founded their quietly luxurious LONB label to fill a hole in the leather goods market. "We wanted to create bags that are functional and stylish, and that get better with age," says Mieck, who learned about what works in the world of leather at Bally and Belstaff. With clever inbuilt storage features, bags by LONB (Love Or Nothing Baby) signal the end of digging around for your phone or keys. With designs for men and women, the collection includes the roomy Vagabond, inspired by vintage motorcycle jackets, and the ingenious Runaway (pictured), a standalone piece for essentials such as a passport and phone that can also be clipped inside LONB's other bags. www.lonb.com
