

The Cut / Style Bible

Sophie Warburton

TOUT LE MONDE

Le Monde Beryl is a one-trick pony. And that's no bad thing. Struggling to find shoes to take them from day to night, Lily Atherton Hanbury and Katya Shyfrin decided to create an elevated version of traditional Venetian gondolier slippers. Stocked at Matches Fashion and Moda Operandi, the styles sold out in their first week. I'm assured they'll be back in stock by the end of July - and with that, Atherton Hanbury and Shyfrin have created the ballet slipper 2.0. From £275, matchesfashion.com.

Bag a super satchel

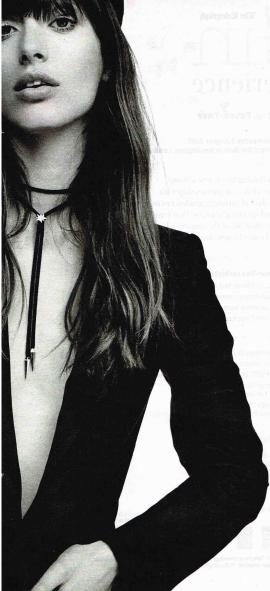

Mulberry's latest range, the Amberley, is a pleasure in leather

Introduced as part of creative director of the label, the Amberley - named castle - is a combination of great Brit-

The satchel has been sexed up courtesy of Mulberry's new style. ish sporting tradition (saddlery leathers and a nod to the original Mulberry Trout and Poacher bags of the 1970s) Johnny Coca's ongoing regeneration and a new twist on the brand's signature 'Postman's Lock', aptly after the 12th-century West Sussex named the 'Rider's Lock'. From £450, mulberry.com.

FOLLOW BOLO

Diane Kordas has made a name for herself in the industry thanks to her fine jewellery with a rock'n'roll edge. Her latest Bolo collection is inspired by American western cowboy-style necklaces but with a sense of refinement through the addition of black diamonds and Kordas's signature 'Amulette' silhouette. From £2,153, dianekordasjewellery.com.

UPTOTHEMINUTE WRISTWEAR

The fashion world still can't get enough of Gucci's heavily embellished exuberance, and its newest watches are instantly recognisable as the work of creative director Alessandro Michele. The G-Timeless Moonphase takes Gucci's whimsical house codes - hearts, stars, bees and the iconic double-G logo - and splashes them kaleidoscopically across its dial, complete with a rainbow moonphase display. A timely addition to the Gucci universe. £1,070, gucci.com. SRG

STYLE CRUSH

Stacy Martin

The actress's lastest role is style icon. 1. In Miu Miu. 2. Dress by Erdem. 3. On the red carpet in Sonia

