

Summer / 2014

LUXURY

A MODERN TAKE

Return of the tiara / The business of Goodwood
Art of Cartier / The new smart casual / Spirit's yacht master
Timepieces to treasure / Vacation essentials

The Telegraph

HEADS UP

JEWELLERY

TIARAS ARE BACK, BUT WE'RE NOT TALKING TRADITIONAL. HEAVY DUTY HEADPIECES, AS WORN BY MAJOR ROYALTY. IN ANSWER TO A CONTEMPORARY CALL, FASHION AND JEWELLERY HOUSES ARE BRINGING OUT FINER, FRESHER PIECES. WEAR WITH A BALLGOWN AND ATTITUDE

Photographs Paul Wetherell
Stylist Victoria Bain

CHANEL
Inspired by Chanel's 1932 collection, the boho-chic Etoile Filante tiara drips with the decadence of the cocktail era

Etoile Filante head jewel in 18-carat white gold with diamonds, price on application, Chanel Fine Jewellery (chanel.com). White gold earrings with 1.85-carat diamonds, £10,200, Piaget (piaget.com); white diamond and gold open-shield ring, £4,450, Diane Kondas (matchefashion.com). Silk dress, £1,230, Rochas (rochas.com)

DAVID MORRIS
Rendered in a mix of rose-cut and brilliant-cut diamonds, the stylised Butterfly tiara gives a traditional motif a contemporary twist

White gold and diamond Butterfly tiara, price on application, David Morris (davidmorris.com). Microvavi hoop earrings in white gold and white diamonds, £1,300, De Beers (debeers.co.uk). Silk pleated dress, £9,900, Christian Dior (dior.com)